'Surprise Tax' on U. S. Incomes Studied

PROPOSAL TO SHOCK NATION ON SPENDING

Plan Would Raise Additional $4,800,000,000 During Coming Year.

15 PER CENT TAX SEEN

Treasury Wants Tax To Make Country Feel Estimated 40 Billion Outlay.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee today considers surprise treasury income tax proposals calculated to shock the country wide awake to what it will mean to spend $100,000,000 (M) a day, $3,000,000,000 (B) a month and close to $40,000,000,000 (B) next year.

Committeemen told the United Press that Secretary of Treasury Henry Morganthau, jr., informed them that that would be next year's spending schedule and presented tentative tax plans to raise another $4,800,000,000 (B) in 1942, most of it from income tax payers.

He suggested that new taxes should be enacted and effective on the first pay day after Jan. 1. That will blow right up the Christmas chimney and any prospect of a December recess of congress, assuming that the legislators consent to any such hurry-up schedule. It took them six months to pass the last tax bill.

Some committee members said Morganthau had talked of an additional 15 per cent levy on taxable income over and above exemptions to single persons and those married or with other dependents.

The 15 or whatever per cent finally enacted—if at all—would be a departure from our tax precedent. It would be a "withholding tax" to be deducted at the source by the employer to be paid directly to the treasury. There was immediate and anguished revival of congressional economy demands as word went around of Morganthau's appearance before the committee and there will be more of that along with new insistence on more effective price controls and possibly wage ceilings.

An alternative suggestion from some committeemen

Woman Attendant at Lima Asylum Attacked, Strangled With Stocking

Pencil Traps Slayer of Boy

WARREN PAUL SNYDER

LEO JORDAN

Two broken pieces of pencil that fitted perfectly trapped Leo Jordan, 23, of Fulton, Ill., hunted as the slayer of 5-year-old Warren Paul Snyder, son of a wealthy coal dealer. The Snyder boy was found, with his throat slashed, in a clump of bushes by Boy Scouts. A broken pencil found near the body and one found in Jordan's pocket fitted together. Jordan then confessed, police said, he killed the boy after making an improper suggestion to him. Jordan has spent all but eight years of his life in Iowa correctional institutions.

Body Discovered On Hospital Grounds Early Today.

DEAD 4 HOURS

Victim Reported To Have Been At Night Club.

(By International News Service)

LIMA—A 45-year-old woman attendant at the Lima State hospital for criminal insane was strangled to death on the institution grounds early today after her unidentified assailant had criminally assaulted her.

The victim, Mrs. Goldie P. Siler, was returning home alone from a Lima night club when attacked near the administration building. Her assailant apparently strangled her to death with one of her own silk stockings after ripping off her clothing.

So far as Sheriff William V. Daley could determine, the slayer could not have been an inmate of the institution for all were reported behind locked doors at the hour of the murder.

Mrs. Siler was the wife of Ray B. Siler. She and her husband had been working at the hospital for the last 15 years.

Sheriff Daley said the body was found between 7 and 8 a. m., by another hospital attendant, E. A. Jennings. The victim had been dead approximately four hours, the sheriff said.

Investigation revealed the attack took place on a crosswalk on the hospital grounds. The attacker apparently dragged Mrs. Siler 200 feet, ripping her clothing off and strangling her with one of her silk stockings, the sheriff asserted.

Although the body was found within easy shouting distance of the administration building, staff physicians who live on the second and third floors reported hearing no outcrys.

Sheriff Daley said Mrs. Siler and her husband attended a night club in Lima, some three miles from the hospital grounds, last night. Siler told the sheriff he got tired and went home alone about midnight when his wife refused to accompany him.

Apparently Mrs. Siler was attacked while walking to the nurses' home on the hospital grounds where she lived. Siler lives in the main hospital building, regulations forbidding married at-

Nazis Retreat In Ukraine, Jap Steamer Sinks

Far East Tension Runs High as Ship Strikes Free Mine

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Far eastern tension hit a new peak today as a Japanese liner hit a drifting mine and sank in the Sea of Japan—and Nippon lodged an immediate "solemn" protest with Soviet Russia.

Japan demanded that the Russian government "reply with sincerity."

Japanese authorities charged the lethal sea weapon which sent the 4,522-ton passenger steamer Kehi Maru to the bottom off the Korean coast was a Soviet mine.

Seventeen of the 510 persons aboard the ship were declared to have been killed, nine more were reported seriously injured by the blasts, which caused the ship to sink in 30 minutes.

Loss of the vessel raised a serious new issue between Japan and Russia amid the redoubled efforts of the Tokyo government to maintain peace with the United States.

The new protest over the loss of the ship was believed to have been couched in extremely strong terms, partly because of previous Japanese protests to Russia against drifting mines and partly because of the size of the ship sent to the bottom.

After the Kehi Maru hit the mine, it sent out SOS signals and rescue vessels and a scouting plane rushed to the scene.

No trace of the liner was found, but it was reported all the 430 passengers and 80 crew members—save those who were killed—were rescued.

The rescue ships Kanei Maru and Hakusan Maru were reported

Picture Brightens For Soviet Armies Even In Fight For Crimea

(By Associated Press)

Masses of Russian reserves were declared to have broken through the German siege lines before Moscow today, while on the southern (Ukraine) front, Soviet dispatches reported that Nazi troops were retreating from a corpse-littered zone of the Donets river basin.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the Germans had fallen back with heavy losses at several points around Moscow.

Altogether, the picture was among the brightest yet painted for Russia's defense armies.

Even in the Crimea, latest advices reaching London indicated that the Germans had made little progress toward the great Black sea naval base of Sevastopol since last Sunday, when they were reported only 20 miles away.

A British military observer went so far as to declare Sevastopol might withstand siege indefinitely, reporting that the city of 80,000 was defended by well-supplied troops manning "very strongly fortified positions."

He said the stronghold could become "another Odessa, perhaps with not the same results"—referring to the long defense of the Ukraine mainland port against German and Rumanian siege armies. Odessa finally surrendered in mid-October.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters declared that pursuit of "the beaten enemy" was continuing along the entire Crimean front and asserted that Soviet resistance had been broken in the mountains east of Sevastopol.

LONDON—(INS)—An Exchange Telegraph (British) dispatch from Moscow said today that Italian Premier Mussolini was injured slightly in an assassination attempt.

Two revolver shots were fired at Il Duce, according to the report.

As a result of the incident, said Exchange, German Gestapo agents have reinforced the Fascist police in Rome.

Two Win By One Vote In Township Contests

Official Count, Started By Election Board Today, May Change Results; No Shift Expected In City Races.

Two of the 36 township trustees elected Tuesday in Richland county hold margins of only one vote over their opponents and may be edged out if the official tabulation of votes started today shows any errors in the township tabulations, board of elections officials said.

The trustees with the narrow winning margins are Robert R. Hammett of Washington township and Archie Stevens, Worthington township. Hammett polled 71 votes to 70 for Charles A. Lawrence, while Stevens topped E. B. McFadden, 251 to 250.

One other trustee was elected by a larger majority in each of the townships. C. D. Taylor apparently held a safe margin in Worthington township and Carl W. McFarland in Washington township.

Two additional workers were on the job today in the election board headquarters to help with the vote re-check which is expected to require the rest of the week to complete.

It was believed improbable, however, that the official count will result in any change in the election results in Mansfield where only one contest was close. The closest race was for council in the Sixth ward where Paul W. Bush, Republican, defeated Stanley L. Wilburn, Democrat, by 41 votes.

SNOW FORECAST

Weatherman Says Rain To Be Followed by Mercury Drop.

Mansfield may get its first snow covering of the season by tomorrow if the weatherman's prediction holds up.

Rain probably will turn to snow tonight or Friday as colder weather moves in from the northwest, the forecast said. Snow flurries are on the weather menu for Friday.

Nearly three-fourths of an inch of rain fell last night and today in Mansfield as the temperature averaged eight degrees above normal. The low reading this morning was 45 degrees.

Although considerably colder weather was forecast for tonight, there was no extereme cold in sight and temperatures are expected to moderate by Saturday. Lowest readings reported this morning were 23 at Winnipeg and 26 at Duluth, Minn.

Looting of Cars Continues, Youth Jailed In Theft

Auto accessory thieves, who have been looting cars in Mansfield for the past six weeks, became a bit bolder last night, removing a tire and wheel from the rear compartment of an automobile while it was parked in the driveway of General hospital.

John E. Young, Bellville, reported to police that a $30 tire and wheel had been removed from his car while he and Mrs. Young were visiting a friend in the hospital.

Previously, police believed that the car thieves, thought to be part of a "ring" working out of Cleveland, worked only in the darkened and isolated sections of the city.

Meanwhile, a Mansfield youth, Walter Leonard Nixon, 23, rear 308 East Second street, was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on a $2,500

Thousands Eye Weather as Tyger-Bulldog Game Nears

By REX HESS
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

Members of Mansfield high school's athletic department stood up and cheered this morning as they greeted the downpour of rain. "Maybe," they Pollyannaed, "this is Friday's rain come a day early. And tomorrow maybe, we'll have good weather for the homecoming game with Canton McKinley."

Eight thousand Mansfield and Canton football fans were ready to join the Pollyanna chorus.

The weatherman today mentioned no rain in his forecast for tomorrow but his prediction said it would be colder and that there may be snow flurries.

Nearly 7,000 tickets have been sold in advance, including the entire Canton allotment of 1,100. There are still a few tickets left of the sideline batch of 1,000 placed on sale two days ago.

Tomorrow night 1,000 general admission seats will be placed on sale for additional bleachers obtained for the big game of the Tygers' home season.

Four special buses have been chartered by Canton fans to bring 150 to the game, while the rest are planning to come by automobile.

The Tygers wound up their heavy preparations for the Mc-

STRIKE FEARED

Threat of Railway Tie-Up Is Renewed By Unions.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Threat of a nationwide railroad strike revived today because of labor dissatisfaction with the wage proposals of President Roosevelt's fact-finding board.

If the railway labor unions formally renew their strike order, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to call labor and management representatives to Washington for a conference seeking to avert a pralyzing strike during the defense emergency.

Leaders of the five operating brotherhoods, who denounced the board's report last night, met today with subordinate officials to decide what action should be taken. They indicated a strike order would be effective Dec. 5—30 days from yesterday, when the board's recommendations were made public.

DRAFT RULING

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, says local draft boards are not authorized to institute on their own a blanket reclassification of strikers in defense industries.

ACTS TONIGHT ON LEFT TURNS

Council Takes Up Legislation To Maintain Through Traffic on Main Street.

City council, holding a meeting postponed from Tuesday because of election night, will consider an ordinance calling for the elimination of left turns on Main street at Third and Fourth streets at a special session tonight at city hall.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals forwarded his request for the legislation last week together with figures from a traffic survey which showed that only 14 per cent of the motorists make left turns.

In letters to Mayor W. J. Locke and council's traffic committee, Boals pointed out that it was "clearly shown that a minority of traffic is holding up a majority."

Boals and members of his traffic squad conducted a traffic count at both intersections on

Red Cross Opens Headquarters for Roll Call Drive

With preliminary plans completed for the annual Red Cross Roll call starting next Tuesday, Richland county chapter of the Red Cross prepared today to open Roll Call headquarters next Monday in Room 608 of the Farmers Bank building.

Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of Richland chapter, assisted by Mrs. Beatrice Balyeat will be stationed at headquarters daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. from Nov. 10 through Nov. 30, the day the drive closes, to receive reports.

Roll Call captains and precinct chairmen from Mansfield and Greater Mansfield received instructions pertaining to the campaign and also their supplies at a tea held yesterday afternoon at the call of the chairman, Mrs. Frank Maxwell.

Sixty workers were present at the Women's club to hear L. W.

ENVOY BRINGING PEACE FORMULA

But Washington's Skeptical of Success of Japanese Mission To U. S.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Saburo Kurusu, the special Japanese envoy en route here on a Pacific clipper, was reported today to be bearing an imperially-approved formula for a peaceful settlement of Japanese-American problems.

Kurusu's dispatch case, diplomatic circles here said, also may enclose a personal message from Premier General Hideki Tojo to President Roosevelt presenting the Japanese government's view of the tense Far-Eastern situation and proposals designed to assure what Japan considers an amicable solution.

A personal message from former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye to the president last August opened the way for "exploratory talks" on the problems—talks which still continue intermittently between Secretary Hull

MODEST BUYING ORDERS ADD UP AFTER ELECTION

Market Shows Sizable Number of Gains Ranging From Fractions To Point.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The election day interlude brought a modest accumulation of buying orders in stocks today and the market achieved a sizable number of gains ranging from fractions to around a point.

Dealings, fairly active at the start, slackened near the second hour. Bidders centered their interest in industrials, showing a special preference for shares which gave a good account of themselves in Monday's moderate upturn.

Helping to develop interest in the buying side, brokers reported, was the absence of any notably adverse foreign news over the holiday. On the other hand, the market again had the benefit of encouraging earnings statements and dividend announcements.

Further indications of a sharp cut in building operations outside defense fields were seen by business analysts in the report of engineering news-record covering October.

Contracts for the period totaled $406,332,000. Private awards on a weekly average basis were 3½ per cent higher than in the preceding month but 59 per cent lower than in the similar month last year.

'Surprise Tax' on U. S. Incomes Studied

PROPOSAL TO SHOCK NATION ON SPENDING

Plan Would Raise Additional $4,800,000,000 During Coming Year.

15 PER CENT TAX SEEN

Treasury Wants Tax To Make Country Feel Estimated 40 Billion Outlay.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee today considers surprise treasury income tax proposals calculated to shock the country wide awake to what it will mean to spend $100,000,000 (M) a day, $3,000,000,000 (B) a month and close to $40,000,000,000 (B) next year.

Committeemen told the United Press that Secretary of Treasury Henry Morganthau, jr., informed them that that would be next year's spending schedule and presented tentative tax plans to raise another $4,800,000,000 (B) in 1942, most of it from income tax payers.

He suggested that new taxes should be enacted and effective on the first pay day after Jan. 1. That will blow right up the Christmas chimney and any prospect of a December recess of congress, assuming that the legislators consent to any such hurry-up schedule. It took them six months to pass the last tax bill.

Some committee members said Morganthau had talked of an additional 15 per cent levy on taxable income over and above exemptions to single persons and those married or with other dependents.

The 15 or whatever per cent finally enacted—if at all—would be a departure from our tax precedent. It would be a "withholding tax" to be deducted at the source by the employer to be paid directly to the treasury. There was immediate and anguished revival of congressional economy demands as word went around of Morganthau's appearance before the committee and there will be more of that along with new insistence on more effective price controls and possibly wage ceilings.

An alternative suggestion from some committeemen

Woman Attendant at Lima Asylum Attacked, Strangled With Stocking

Body Discovered On Hospital Grounds Early Today.

DEAD 4 HOURS

Victim Reported To Have Been At Night Club.

(By International News Service)

LIMA—A 45-year-old woman attendant at the Lima State hospital for criminal insane was strangled to death on the institution grounds early today after her unidentified assailant had criminally assaulted her.

The victim, Mrs. Goldie P. Siler, was returning home alone from a Lima night club when attacked near the administration building. Her assailant apparently strangled her to death with one of her own silk stockings after ripping off her clothing.

So far as Sheriff William V. Daley could determine, the slayer could not have been an inmate of the institution for all were reported behind locked doors at the hour of the murder.

Mrs. Siler was the wife of Ray B. Siler. She and her husband had been working at the hospital for the last 15 years.

Sheriff Daley said the body was found between 7 and 8 a. m., by another hospital attendant, E. A. Jennings. The victim had been dead approximately four hours, the sheriff said.

Investigation revealed the attack took place on a crosswalk on the hospital grounds. The attacker apparently dragged Mrs. Siler 200 feet, ripping her clothing off and strangling her with one of her silk stockings, the sheriff asserted.

Although the body was found within easy shouting distance of the administration building, staff physicians who live on the second and third floors reported hearing no outcrys.

Sheriff Daley said Mrs. Siler and her husband attended a night club in Lima, some three miles from the hospital grounds, last night. Siler told the sheriff he got tired and went home alone about midnight when his wife refused to accompany him.

Apparently Mrs. Siler was attacked while walking to the nurses' home on the hospital grounds where she lived. Siler lives in the main hospital building, regulations forbidding married at-

One of six nominees chosen in a campus election, the Mansfield girl was among the candidates selected from a field of 18 during balloting yesterday at the university. Pencil Traps Slayer of Boy

WARREN PAUL SNYDER

LEO JORDAN

Two broken pieces of pencil that fitted perfectly trapped Leo Jordan, 23, of Fulton, Ill., hunted as the slayer of 5-year-old Warren Paul Snyder, son of a wealthy coal dealer. The Snyder boy was found, with his throat slashed, in a clump of bushes by Boy Scouts. A broken pencil found near the body and one found in Jordan's pocket fitted together. Jordan then confessed, police said, he killed the boy after making an improper suggestion to him. Jordan has spent all but eight years of his life in Iowa correctional institutions.

Two Win By One Vote In Township Contests

Official Count, Started By Election Board Today, May Change Results; No Shift Expected In City Races.

Two of the 36 township trustees elected Tuesday in Richland county hold margins of only one vote over their opponents and may be edged out if the official tabulation of votes started today shows any errors in the township tabulations, board of elections officials said.

The trustees with the narrow winning margins are Robert R. Hammett of Washington township and Archie Stevens, Worthington township. Hammett polled 71 votes to 70 for Charles A. Lawrence, while Stevens topped E. B. McFadden, 251 to 250.

One other trustee was elected by a larger majority in each of the townships. C. D. Taylor apparently held a safe margin in Worthington township and Carl W. McFarland in Washington township.

Two additional workers were on the job today in the election board headquarters to help with the vote re-check which is expected to require the rest of the week to complete.

It was believed improbable, however, that the official count will result in any change in the election results in Mansfield where only one contest was close. The closest race was for council in the Sixth ward where Paul W. Bush, Republican, defeated Stanley L. Wilburn, Democrat, by 41 votes.

Looting of Cars Continues, Youth Jailed In Theft

Auto accessory thieves, who have been looting cars in Mansfield for the past six weeks, became a bit bolder last night, removing a tire and wheel from the rear compartment of an automobile while it was parked in the driveway of General hospital.

John E. Young, Bellville, reported to police that a $30 tire and wheel had been removed from his car while he and Mrs. Young were visiting a friend in the hospital.

Previously, police believed that the car thieves, thought to be part of a "ring" working out of Cleveland, worked only in the darkened and isolated sections of the city.

Meanwhile, a Mansfield youth, Walter Leonard Nixon, 23, rear 308 East Second street, was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on a $2,500

DEATH ERROR

Navy Tells Parents Son Not On Torpedoed James.

HAMILTON — (AP) — The navy department has advised Mr. and Mrs. Mack Morgan that their son, Hiram, 28, who was reported among the casualties when the U. S. S. Ruben James was torpedoed, had been transferred to the U. S. S. Denebola before the James sank and was safe. Delay in mail for ships at sea caused the erroneous listing, the navy said.

INVESTIGATES DEATH

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coroner E. E. Smith today investigated the death of Gilbert Mitchell, 41, of Spargursville (Ross county), in University hospital. Attendants said he was admitted yesterday suffering injuries received in a traffic accident, details of which were not learned.

SNOW FORECAST

Weatherman Says Rain To Be Followed by Mercury Drop.

Mansfield may get its first snow covering of the season by tomorrow if the weatherman's prediction holds up.

Rain probably will turn to snow tonight or Friday as colder weather moves in from the northwest, the forecast said. Snow flurries are on the weather menu for Friday.

Nearly three-fourths of an inch of rain fell last night and today in Mansfield as the temperature averaged eight degrees above normal. The low reading this morning was 45 degrees.

Although considerably colder weather was forecast for tonight, there was no extereme cold in sight and temperatures are expected to moderate by Saturday. Lowest readings reported this morning were 23 at Winnipeg and 26 at Duluth, Minn.

Thousands Eye Weather as Tyger-Bulldog Game Nears

By REX HESS
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

Members of Mansfield high school's athletic department stood up and cheered this morning as they greeted the downpour of rain. "Maybe," they Pollyannaed, "this is Friday's rain come a day early. And tomorrow maybe, we'll have good weather for the homecoming game with Canton McKinley."

Eight thousand Mansfield and Canton football fans were ready to join the Pollyanna chorus.

The weatherman today mentioned no rain in his forecast for tomorrow but his prediction said it would be colder and that there may be snow flurries.

Nearly 7,000 tickets have been sold in advance, including the entire Canton allotment of 1,100. There are still a few tickets left of the sideline batch of 1,000 placed on sale two days ago.

Tomorrow night 1,000 general admission seats will be placed on sale for additional bleachers obtained for the big game of the Tygers' home season.

Four special buses have been chartered by Canton fans to bring 150 to the game, while the rest are planning to come by automobile.

The Tygers wound up their heavy preparations for the Mc-

STRIKE FEARED

Threat of Railway Tie-Up Is Renewed By Unions.

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Threat of a nationwide railroad strike revived today because of labor dissatisfaction with the wage proposals of President Roosevelt's fact-finding board.

If the railway labor unions formally renew their strike order, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to call labor and management representatives to Washington for a conference seeking to avert a pralyzing strike during the defense emergency.

Leaders of the five operating brotherhoods, who denounced the board's report last night, met today with subordinate officials to decide what action should be taken. They indicated a strike order would be effective Dec. 5—30 days from yesterday, when the board's recommendations were made public.

DRAFT RULING

Bans Blanket Reclassification of Strikers In Defense Plants.

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, says local draft boards are not authorized to institute on their own a blanket reclassification of strikers in defense industries.

"Each case must be dealt with separately," he said yesterday during an interview.

ACTS TONIGHT ON LEFT TURNS

Council Takes Up Legislation To Maintain Through Traffic on Main Street.

City council, holding a meeting postponed from Tuesday because of election night, will consider an ordinance calling for the elimination of left-turns on Main street at Third and Fourth streets at a special session tonight at city hall.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals forwarded his request for the legislation last week together with figures from a traffic survey which showed that only 14 per cent of the motorists make left turns.

In letters to Mayor W. J. Locke and council's traffic committee, Boals pointed out that it was "clearly shown that a minority of traffic is holding up a majority."

Boals and members of his traffic squad conducted a traffic count at both intersections on

Red Cross Opens Headquarters for Roll Call Drive

With preliminary plans completed for the annual Red Cross Roll call starting next Tuesday, Richland county chapter of the Red Cross prepared today to open Roll Call headquarters next Monday in Room 608 of the Farmers Bank building.

The county's 650 Roll Call workers, out to obtain a quota of 22,000 members established by national organization, will report to headquarters daily, according to L. W. Birch, county Roll Call chairman.

Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of Richland chapter, assisted by Mrs. Beatrice Balycat will be stationed at headquarters daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. from Nov. 10 through Nov. 30, the day the drive closes, to receive reports.

Roll Call captains and precinct chairmen from Mansfield and Greater Mansfield received instructions pertaining to the campaign and also their supplies at a tea held yesterday afternoon at the call of the chairman, Mrs. Frank Maxwell.

Trial of Browne and Bioff For Extortion Nearing End.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The case of George E. Browne and William Bioff, charged with shaking down four motion picture producing and exhibiting companies for $550,000, goes to a federal jury today.

The trial of Browne and Bioff, president and west coast representative, respectively, of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes (AFL), began Oct. 8. The government and the defense rested yesterday.

George Breslin, Bioff's attorney, charged in summarization that the "true facts" has been concealed and his client was being made a goat.

ENVOY BRINGING PEACE FORMULA

But Washington's Skeptical of Success of Japanese Mission To U. S.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Saburo Kurusu, the special Japanese envoy en route here on a Pacific clipper, was reported today to be bearing an imperially-approved formula for a peaceful settlement of Japanese-American problems.

Kurusu's dispatch case, diplomatic circles here said, also may enclose a personal message from Premier General Hideki Tojo to President Roosevelt presenting the Japanese government's view of the tense Far-Eastern situation and proposals designed to assure what Japan considers an amicable solution.

A personal message from former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye to the president last August opened the way for "exploratory talks" on the problems —talks which still continue intermittently between Secretary Hull

Stalin Picks Litvinoff as Ambassador to United States

KUIBYSHEV, Russia—(Delayed)—(U.P.)—Premier Josef Stalin designated Former Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov as Russia's ambassador to the United States today.

Litvinov, veteran Soviet diplomat of the era of "collective security" was named to succeed the present emissary to Washington, Constantin Oumansky.

Litvinov was removed as Soviet foreign commissar in May 1939 in a move which foreshadowed Russia's signature of the pact with Germany which immediately preceded the outbreak of war. He was replaced by V. M. Molotov who also held the premiership until after start of the Russo-German war when No. 1 post was taken over by Josef Stalin.

Litvinov remained in comparative obscurity in Moscow until the German attack upon Russia when

Nazis Retreat In Ukraine, Jap Steamer Sinks

Far East Tension Runs High as Ship Strikes Free Mine

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Far eastern tension hit a new peak today as a Japanese liner hit a drifting mine and sank in the Sea of Japan—and Nippon lodged an immediate "solemn" protest with Soviet Russia.

Japan demanded that the Russian government "reply with sincerity."

Japanese authorities charged the lethal sea weapon which sent the 4,522-ton passenger steamer Kehi Maru to the bottom off the Korean coast was a Soviet mine.

Seventeen of the 510 persons aboard the ship were declared to have been killed, nine more were reported seriously injured by the blasts, which caused the ship to sink in 30 minutes.

Loss of the vessel raised a serious new issue between Japan and Russia amid the redoubled efforts of the Tokyo government to maintain peace with the United States.

The new protest over the loss of the ship was believed to have been couched in extremely strong terms, partly because of previous Japanese protests to Russia against drifting mines and partly because of the size of the ship sent to the bottom.

After the Kehi Maru hit the mine, it sent out SOS signals and rescue vessels and a scouting plane rushed to the scene.

No trace of the liner was found, but it was reported all the 480 passengers and 80 crew members—save those who were killed—were rescued.

The rescue ships Kanei Maru and Hakusan Maru were reported

Picture Brightens For Soviet Armies Even In Fight For Crimea

(By Associated Press)

Masses of Russian reserves were declared to have broken through the German siege lines before Moscow today, while on the southern (Ukraine) front, Soviet dispatches reported that Nazi troops were retreating from a corpse-littered zone of the Donets river basin.

Tass, the official Russian news agency, said the Germans had fallen back with heavy losses at several points around Moscow.

Altogether, the picture was among the brightest yet painted for Russia's defense armies.

Even in the Crimea, latest advices reaching London indicated that the Germans had made little progress toward the great Black sea naval base of Sevastopol since last Sunday, when they were reported only 20 miles away.

A British military observer went so far as to declare Sevastopol might withstand siege indefinitely, reporting that the city of 80,000 was defended by well-supplied troops manning "very strongly fortified positions."

He said the stronghold could become "another Odessa, perhaps with not the same results"—referring to the long defense of the Ukraine mainland port against German and Rumanian siege armies. Odessa finally surrendered in mid-October.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters declared that pursuit of "the beaten enemy" was continuing along the entire Crimean front and asserted that Soviet resistance had been broken in the mountains east of Sevastopol.

SPINACH YIELDS FOLIC VITAMIN

New Body Essential Recently Discovered By Scientist at Texas University.

(By United Press)

AUSTIN, Tex.—A new and important vitamin, which may prove to be one of the essentials of normal development of the issues in the human body, has been developed from fresh spinach by University of Texas scientists.

The vitamin, known as "folic acid," was discovered recently by Dr. Roger J. Williams, Dr. Esmond E. Snell and Herschel K. Mitchell and announced by the American Chemical Society.

When purified, the scientists believe the acid will prove valuable in medicine. It is known to play a fundamental part in the life processes of plants, animals, and human beings.

The name "folic," derived from the Latin word "folium," meaning "green leaf," was chosen after the acid was developed from four tons of spinach. It is described by scientists to rank in importance with pantothenic acid, so-called "acid of life," which Dr. Williams discovered.

Dr. Williams came to the university in 1939 from the University of Oregon, bringing with him his two co-workers to collaborate on the experiments which are conducted in a specially designed laboratory built for him by the university.

The scientist was named 1941-42 research professor by the board of regents last April. His work was endowed in October, 1940, with a $45,000 grant from the Clayton Foundation of Houston, and later the same year won the $1,000 Mead Johnson and company award for outstanding work on vitamin B complex. Development of micro-biological methods of food assay earned him a $2,500 grant from the Research Corporation of New York.

Dr. Williams received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Redlands in 1914 and his Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy from the University of Chicago.

Soldiers Barred From Church Opposing U. S. Armed Policy

(By International News Service)

DENVER — The nearly 10,000 soldiers at Lowry Field and Fort Logan were warned today that the "out of bounds" orders barring them from the Denver headquarters of the America First Committee would be extended to include any church where opposition to the nation's military policy is preached.

Declaring that such opposition, whether expressed by organizations, individuals or clergymen is "bordering on treason," Col. Early E. W. Duncan, commanding officer at Lowry Field, announced:

"If I am convinced any pastor continues to preach against true Americanism by opposing the definite policy of the president, I will place his church out of bounds."

Some of the army air corps' most important technical schools are located at Lowry Field. Fort Logan is a sub-division.

After placing the America First Committee on the army "blackmark" list, Col. Duncan further ordered that no isolationist literature would be allowed on the military reservations, and said soldiers caught expounding non-interventionists theories would be tossed into the guardhouse.

Military police on patrol in downtown Denver were instructed to see that soldiers did not go into the America First headquarters.

CIVIC MUSIC MEMBERS TO HEAR TUMINIA IN FIRST OF CONCERTS

Mansfield's Civic Music association concert series open Monday night, Nov. 10, with the appearance of Josephine Tuminia, young coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan, at the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium at 8 p. m.

Originally scheduled to appear here Oct. 23, the singer was taken ill just prior to that time and her Mansfield concert was postponed upon the advice of her physician until Nov. 10.

An audience of 1,200 Civic Music association patrons will hear the artist and the three other concerts announced for the season including the National Symphony, Dec. 1; Alexander Brailowsky, the internationally-known pianist, Feb. 17, and Giannini and Martinelli, Metropolitan soprano and tenor, in a joint concert, March 24.

Tuminia, the American-born soprano, who made her Metropolitan debut in "Rigoletto," in February, this year, began her vocal studies in San Francisco at the age of 17.

Her debut was made in 1935 with the San Francisco Opera company in "The Barber of Seville." After two years with this company Tuminia went to Italy for further coaching and for the valuable experience of singing in European opera houses. She coached in Milan and her first engagement was in Palermo, the home of her parents. Other appearances throughout Italy as well as in Switzerland and Jugoslavia followed.

Her call to the Chicago Opera company came after a summer of singing at the Cincinnati Zoo and her Chicago engagement resulted in a contract with the Metropolitan.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys
If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SOVIETS CRACK GERMAN LINES BEFORE MOSCOW

Report Nazis Retreating In Donets Basin and Crimea Situation Better.

of a break-through to the Black sea, the high command said German and Rumanian troops defeated isolated Red army units in the Yaila mountains and "pushed through a broad front" to the coastal region between Yalta and Feodosiya.

On the central front, authoritative London quarters said the 36-day-old German drive on Moscow was now "very definitely held."

German newsreels from the front significantly stressed the hazards and difficulties of assaulting the U. S. S. R. capital, displaying diagrams and pictures of Moscow's five-ply outer defense system — successive barriers of flame-throwers, tank traps and barbed wire, a moat, more tank traps and barbed-wire entanglements, and finally bunkers.

The government-controlled Moscow radio said the Germans were fleeing from an unspecified Donets river battlefield "leaving behind them heaps of dead and many guns." Much of the bitterest fighting in the 670-mile-long basin has centered around Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

British broadcast said German armies driving into the central Donets region were being held up short of Voroshilovgrad, 70 miles east of German-captured Stalino and almost due north of Rostov.

The Soviet radio said the battle of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, continued to rage "but the enemy is not fighting with the same ardor as when he began the offensive."

There were indications that Siberia-trained Red army reserves, some 200,000 of them now reported fighting on the Moscow front, may have turned the tide in that all-important struggle. The Russians said German soldiers were again entrenching defensively and half burying tanks to use as pillboxes against Soviet counter-attacks.

The possibility of a winter campaign in the south, with Caucasus oil as the stake, occupied the attention of both.

German sources made no bones about the economic value of the Caucasian oil fields, not so much for the booty that would fall to Germany as for the blow Russia would suffer if she lost three-fourths of her petroleum output.

Such a drive, it was asserted in Berlin, would be a logical consequence of Nazi gains in the Crimea, a back door to the Caucasus, and along the Black sea coast.

The Russians linked the possibility of a major southern drive with the report of a possible winter stalemate in the Moscow theater of operations.

See Finland Set To Continue War

STOCKHOLM — (UP) — Political quarters reported today that Finland appears certain to continue her war against Russia—largely because of German pressure—despite evidences that certain Finnish circles would welcome peace.

(The London Daily Mail quoted Commerce Minister Vanno Tanner as saying in a radio broadcast that "Finland has no more fervent desire than to see peace restored to Europe" and that "our immediate task is to secure peace for our national life." Tanner spoke as president of the international cooperative movement in reply to an appeal by the British Cooperative union that Finland withdraw from the war.)

Swedish observers said Finland's only chance of getting out of the war would be by consent of Germany which obviously will not be forthcoming.

Report Tirpitz Damaged by Reds

NEW YORK — (INS) — A British radio broadcast today quoted reports from Stockholm as stating the 35,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz was damaged yesterday during a Soviet air raid on the Baltic port of Danzig. The broadcast was heard by NBC.

(A dispatch from London said the British radio had quoted a London Daily Telegraph dispatch from Stockholm reporting that Soviet planes heavily bombed the Tirpitz at Danzig on Monday night.)

The Tirpitz was completed in 1939. It is one of the huge German battleships of the Bismark class.

Report Nazis Seek New Baltic States

VICHY — (U.P.) — Germany was reported today to be preparing to establish a big new Baltic state which would include Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, most of the Russian half of Poland and all of White Russia.

As explained here, the Germans do not propose to re-establish the independent Baltic states which Russia took over last year.

Instead, it was said, the Germans plan an entirely new geographical set-up.

LITVINOFF NEW ENVOY TO U. S.

Stalin Picks Veteran Diplomat To Succeed Oumansky In Washington.

he emerged from virtual retirement to take a leading part in Soviet rapprochement with the United States and Britain.

Two weeks after the German attack on Russia, Litvinov returned to the public spotlight with a radio address upon Moscow calling upon Britain to throw her full weight against Germany in the west while the Soviet stood off the attack in the east.

He called on Britain to invade the European continent.

He played an important role in the Anglo-American-Russian consultations in Moscow, acting as interpreter in the discussions between Stalin, and the heads of the Anglo-American delegations. Lord Beaverbrook and W. Averell Harriman.

His designation by Stalin to assume the key post of ambassador to the United States was obviously a move designed to tighten cooperation and to remove, if possible, any further barriers of suspicion and lack of understanding which might impede full American support in the form of supplies and war materials.

Litvinov is the diplomat who came to Washington immediately after President Roosevelt's accession to office and negotiated with the understanding which led to American recognition of the Soviet.

Looting of Cars Continues, Youth Jailed In Theft

bond yesterday by Mayor W. R. Morris in Shelby when he pleaded guilty to charges of driving an automobile without the owner's consent.

Nixon allegedly took an auto owned by Ray Blair of Shelby last Saturday to take his girl for a joy-ride of several southern Ohio cities, police said.

The Mansfield youth was returned from Nelsonville earlier this week by Richland county authorities after police there had found that Nixon had clocked up more than 1,000 miles travel on the car.

The theft of the tire and wheel from Young's car was the eighth reported in the first five days of November. Several other thefts from cars occurred last month.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates has asked motorists to lock their autos when leaving them and to park them in well-lighted places. Earlier this week, he detailed additional men to investigate the latest wave of car lootings.

to have found all 10 of the Kehi Maru's lifeboats.

Officials in Tokyo, obviously angered by this latest development in the stormy history of Russo-Japanese relations, told International News Service.

"It could not have been anything but a Soviet mine that sank the ship."

The official foreign statement announcing the protest to Russia said:

"Radio messages from the Kehi Maru and other circumstances make it clear the disaster was caused by a floating mine which drifted from Soviet territorial waters.

"Therefore Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs Nishi this afternoon summoned Soviet Ambassador Smetanin and presented a solemn protest. He demanded that the Soviet government reply with sincerity."

The official Japanese announcement said:

"The Sea of Japan Steamship company's passenger liner Kehi Maru, in regular service between Tsuruga and Seishin, met disaster about 10 o'clock last night in the Sea of Japan, striking a mine while en route to Tsuruga.

"Several ships hurried immediately to the scene upon receiving an SOS."

Investigation diclosed that all inmates of the hospital were behind locked doors last night.

No arrests have been made, Sheriff Daley said as he ordered detectives to search the hospital grounds for possible clue to the identity of the slayer.

Dr. R. E. Bushong, hospital superintendent, reported to State Welfare Director Charles Sherwood at Columbus that all inmates were checked and accounted for last night.

"It appears to be an outside job," Dr. Bushong told the welfare director.

Sherwood said the department would probe further into the matter after local authorities have assimilated all the facts.

Criminals adjudged insane and not accountable for their misdeeds are sent to the hospital. It was pointed out that several persons suspected in criminal assault cases are confined there.

'YOUTH' WINS IN CAMPAIGN

Breaks 28-Year Winning Streak of Aged Mayor.

McKEESPORT, Pa. — (AP) — Campaigning on a "youth vs. age" platform, a political stripling has snapped a phenomenal election winning streak—the 28-year run of 74-year-old George H. Lysle as mayor of this booming industrial center.

Lysle, a rock-ribbed Republican regarded as the Old Man River of western Pennsylvania politics, was defeated in Tuesday's election by J. Frank Buchanan, 39-year-old school teacher-basketball coach who was in knee pants when Lysle first took office in 1913.

Thousands Eye Weather as Tyger-Bulldog Game Nears

Kinley battle last night with a light workout under the lights at Stadium field. All members of the squad, with the exception of Audy Brandt, are in shape and ready to go. Brandt was injured in the Massillon game two weeks ago.

Members of the team are taking this game seriously. Having seen McKinley in action last Saturday in a 58 to 6 victory over Steubenville, they realize the Bulldogs have a more dangerous offense than Massillon, whose power plays were successfully stopped by the Tygers in scoring territory.

McKinley has power, speed, and a sensational aerial attack. Big Tom Harris, pile-driving fullback, has power to burn, and usually is good for a first down when only a few yards are needed. Jack Crider, who broke into the headlines with five touchdowns in the Bulldogs' opening victory over Canton Timken, is a fast, shifty runner. Both stars are good passers, and McKinley has plenty of good receivers, including Harris' young brother, Jasper.

There'll be plenty of color in tomorrow night's gridiron festivities. Arrangements have been made to extend the time between halves so that both the Mansfield and McKinley bands may put on their complete show, and homecoming ceremonies will also be given plenty of time.

Etabel Hunter, homecoming queen, and her court of four attendants, Betty Underwood, Nancy Grimm, Marge Urich, and Doris McKnight, will arrive on the field in properly decorated open cars, and will be introduced to the crowd by Principal Glenn G. Rohleder, representing the alumni.

The last pep rally of the football season will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in the high school auditorium, the program will consist of the crowning of the homecoming queen, and an address by Herbert R. Slough, Mansfield insurance salesman.

The homecoming queen will be crowned at the rally by Pat Olin, queen of last spring's Mansfield relays.

'SURPRISE TAX' BEING STUDIED

House Committee Considers Treasury Plan To Raise $4,800,000,000 More.

was for a forced savings system such as the British have undertaken with the twin purpose of raising revenue and diverting from the stream of popular expenditure large sums which would accelerate inflation.

The extraordinary heavy income taxes levied in the $3,553,400,000 (B) revenue law passed by congress on last Sept. 17 would remain in effect and tax payers would compute and pay under those rates as usual. The suggested 15 per cent "withholding tax," or whatever rate of such tax as may ultimately be agreed upon, would have no exemption loopholes other than the basic provisions regarding single persons and heads of families.

On a 15 per cent basis—which apparently is tentative—the withholding tax would raise about $3,000,000,000 (B) annually. The Sept. 17 revenue act jacked up taxes to raise $8,533,400,000 (B) of which $1,114,600,000 (B) would come from income tax payers.

Members of the committee said the treasury proposals were:

1. A new flat income rate, computed on present personal exemptions — $750 for a single person, $1,500 for a married couple—to be deducted from wage earners check and paid by his employer. The treasury discussed several rates with varying yields but committee members said 15 per cent was the only one on which the program was based, since it contemplates the highest withholding tax yields.

2. Doubling of the present old age annuity payroll tax of one per cent on employers and one per cent on employes so that each would pay two per cent, to yield $900,000,000 (M).

3. A one per cent unemployment compensation payroll tax on employes, to yield $450,000,000 (M). Employers now pay a three per cent unemployment tax; employes pay none.

The total of these estimates, using the $3,000,000,000 (B) withholding tax yield, is $4,300,000,000 (B); in addition the new income tax would be paid by the self-employed such as doctors, lawyers and farmers, and by recipients of income from investments.

ACTS TONIGHT ON LEFT TURNS

Council Takes Up Legislation To Maintain Through Traffic on Main Street.

Aug. 6 to ascertain the average flow of traffic. They estimated that of the 1,000 cars passing both intersections in an hour, 70 per cent traveled straight through the intersection, 16 per cent made right turns and 14 per cent turned to the left.

Council will not be asked to pass the ordinance as an emergency, according to Boals, because he plans to acquaint motorists with the new order gradually, rather than "spring it on them all of a sudden."

This new order would be another in a series of attempts to solve the problem of maintaining an even flow of traffic on Mansfield's downtown streets.

Ten years ago, turns of any type were prohibited at Fourth and Main streets but business persons calling at banks and other places of business around the intersection complained and the ordinance was repealed.

In 1937, another experiment was made in which no left turns were allowed at Walnut and Main streets on Third, one-way traffic was designated for several streets and parallel parking was ordered around Central park. Prohibition of turns at the downtown intersections was removed when the entire ordinance was rescinded by council.

Also to be considered by council tonight will be the authorization of the construction of storm sewers on six city streets, the payment of several claims and other minor matters.

Although council passed an ordinance on Aug. 5 authorizing the construction of the storm sewers on eight city streets, nothing has been done on those projects as yet. Council set up definite appropriations for the sewer projects. It was believed that this would prevent the lumping of the total appropriation for the construction of a few sewers with a large amount of the funds going for labor.

The new ordinance to be presented tonight, however, lumps the six projects under one appropriation of $6,300. Two of the sewer projects have been abandoned for a while until easements on property can be obtained.

Under the new ordinance, sewers would be built at Poplar street and Vennum avenue, Beethoven and Diamond streets, Appleseed school, Scholl road, West Third street, and McPherson street.

The ordinance passed on Aug. 5 set up the following appropriations: Poplar-Vennum, $3,000; Beethoven-Diamond, $1,100; at Appleseed school, $600; Scholl road, $800; West Third street, $600 and McPherson street, $1,800.

The Aug. 5 ordinance also provided that a $6,500 sewer be built on Sycamore street and a $1,400 sewer on Orange street and Third avenue. These last projects were eliminated until easements could be obtained.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1941.

Now that ASCAP is back, few may recall that it was away.

It is President Cutten, of Colgate university, who is credited with the definition: "A Communist is a Socialist without a sense of humor."

There's a national movement this year to abolish the contraction of Christmas to "X-mas"—and the complete word has a much more attractive appearance.

Best Season for National Parks

MORE than 21 million people have visited the national parks so far in 1941, according to figures of the National Park Service. So 16 per cent of the people of the United States made some use of their park areas during the year. The total is 26 per cent higher than for 1940, and this is the eighth consecutive year in which park attendance has grown.

The most popular, apparently, is Great Smoky Mountains National park in Tennessee and North Carolina, perhaps because it lies close to the most populous region of the United States. and classes as a "one-day" park. But less accessible parks draw admiring patrons, too.

This is what the national parks are for. This is why the government has built fine roads through them, provided camping and hotel facilities in or near them, trained attendants to take care of them and to make the public welcome. The national parks, monuments and historical sites are set aside to preserve for the whole public both their unique scenery and their recreational opportunities. The tax money devoted to the preparation and upkeep of the parks would be wasted if the public were not thus increasingly aware of their value.

Paper Shortage Already Noticed

ANOTHER of the shortages beginning to affect all Americans is that of wrapping paper. The government uses large amounts of corrugated cardboard to pack shipments to England and the shells being stored in our arsenals. This means a growing scarcity of ordinary wrapping paper and a higher price for what is available.

Stores have begun to conserve this commodity. Grocers are no longer lavish with paper bags. They'd be glad to see more shoppers bring their own market baskets.

Elsewhere, however, the pinch has already produced changes. A women's organization which yearly conducts a big "White Elephant Sale" for philanthropic causes has this year asked for donations of old newspapers. They will be used to wrap the "white elephants" that patrons buy. It will be patriotic to carry home things so wrapped, the club reminds the public. A good many things will be done with better grace, regardless of looks and convenience, when that practice becomes widely accepted.

Some idea of the cause of paper shortage is gained from the fact that the government recently requisitioned 50,000 tons of pulp for shipment to England to replace cotton in making explosives.

A few of the other defense needs for paper are listed as follows: 7,500 tons mimeograph paper; 2,500 tons typewriter paper; 3¾ million sheets carbon paper; 50 million file folders; 11,000 tons target paper; 11,000 tons (per month) liners for shell containers; 1¼ billion envelopes per year.

There's An English Word for It

A WRITER for the New York Times is delighted with a prospect he hopes may become reality as a result of the withdrawal from France to America of the world's fashion center. He got to thinking about his hopes when he saw a picture of a new hair-style for women and read that it was called the "popinjay."

Popinjay is a very good English word, although it has its roots in other languages. The Times writer says it is "fresh out of the English-speaking eighteenth century, out of Dr. Johnson and Fielding and perhaps even Addison's Spectator." According to the dictionary, it is also fresh out of Shakespeare and even earlier English writers.

What all this leads to is his hope that the namers of new styles, not only in hair arrangement, but in clothing, perfumes, shades of color, and all the rest will use English words hereafter. It is a promising idea. The English words will be easier to spell and to pronounce, and their use in this way may remind Americans again of the richness and expressiveness of their own language.

Thieves Avoid Locked Cars

LOCKING YOUR CAR, or turning the front wheels toward the curb when parking on a slope, are largely matters of habit—both being done almost unconsciously after the habit has been formed.

Reports of thefts from cars would be much less frequent if more motorists would lock the doors of their cars when they leave merchandise or any articles of value in the car—even when they park for only a few minutes.

And there would be much less damage from "runaway" cars if front wheels were turned curbward when parking on any one of Mansfield's many sloping streets.

Effect of National Prejudices

ONE TROUBLE with Europe seems to be that it has so many races, cultures and languages jammed together in a comparatively small area. Charles Devila, Rumanian minister to the United States, says the continent needs a "common denominator," and that denominator must be not narrow national interests but democracy. "You can't make a democratic omelet," he insists, "without breaking national eggs."

Now that is what has happened in America. We have people here representing all of the European nations, races and cultures, and on the whole they get along amazingly well together. Our original democracy provided the solvent to loosen their old bonds and prejudices and mix them up together in a new race. We are still dominantly English in language and culture, and will doubtless remain so; but out of the mixture may come a better and stronger type of American.

Engineers continue hopeful that a way will be found to transmit odors by radio—meanwhile olfactory reaction must be attributed to the quality of material that induces it.

It is said that people in some parts of Russia still follow the practice of sleeping on the oven—which impresses one writer as being similar to a Home on the Range.

IT'S TIME TO WORK FOR MY UNION, BOYS

Public Reaction to New Taxes

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

CONGRESS' governmental money-raising experts are beginning to get a powerful public reaction to the new tax law, effective since Oct. 1. It isn't a favorable one, either. Not that the levies provided for in the law itself are so much adversely criticized. It pretty generally is recognized that Uncle Sam has to have the money.

The howl is over the extent to which the law has boosted prices, a great deal more than enough to cover the taxes decreed by it.

The average consumer undoubtedly knew that he'd have to foot the bill for Uncle Samuel's requirements, but he obviously resents having to pay a lot more, too.

It's like this:

Suppose the tax is so much per ton of something or per hogsheadful, if it's a liquid. The government collects it on that basis. The producer pays exactly what's called for. Then he passes his stuff along to a wholesaler, tacking on the amount that he's paid, with perhaps a trifle added onto it. The wholesaler, in turn, transfers it to a retailer, also, most likely with a little additional rakeoff. The retailer sells it over his counter to the ultimate consumer.

But the retailer doesn't do his selling by the ton or the hogshead. He does it by the ounce or half pint or maybe just a glassful. These small measures' proportion of the tax probably isn't more than 1, 2, 3 or possibly 6 or 7 cents per ounce or swig each. Such midget transactions in mere coppers are inconvenient. So, instead of 1, 2, 3 or 6 or 7 cents per sale, a nickel or a dime gets itself tacked on.

Percentage Stiff.

Well, just one nickel or one dime doesn't amount to much, as a lone sum of money, but it may represent a heck of a stiff percentage of increase.

For instance, hiking the price of a 50-cent half pint of "licker" to 60 cents make the stimulant cost 20 per cent more and a single slug of it, shot up from 15 to 20 cents, is worse yet.

Such rates of increase, applied to a whole lot of items of merchandise, naturally sends the gross cost of living skyrocketing into the air.

Retailers are the boys I come principally into contact with, and the ones I know assure me that in the nickels and dimes. Their story is that the extra-tax boosts are wished into prices higher up by initial producers or wholesaling middlemen, they imply. As to that, I don't know, and doubtless it would take a congressional investigation, or some such thing, to find out.

The advance is noticeable to everyone, however.

It apparently took the public a few days to appreciate how generally it was due to be spread around, to appreciate it now, for every congressman's mail is crammed with letters from his home folk, squawking over the swollen size of their bills.

I incline to think that the retailer is truthful in asserting that he isn't getting any of the supplemental odd coppers—that higher-ups are getting 'em. The retailer'd like to keep his prices down, to hold his trade. The higher-ups, if their civilian patronage is cut in upon, can turn to defense and lease-lend business for the time being. The little retailer is out on a limb.

Consume Your Smoke!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEER what a few words will do to your life. Take f'rinstance, that old phrase, "CONSUME YOUR OWN SMOKE."

Chances are, you're too young to remember when this phrase started . . . to remember when science discovered that great factories could make away with their own residue. Truth is, I didn't understand much about it myself.

We Robinsons were just kids when it all started. We lived on a bay, across the Carquinez Strait from Port Costa. A bay that held some mysterious menace. Later I was to know that the menace came from a smelter near Port Costa . . . a smelter whose poisonous fumes brought destruction and death to so many loved and familiar things.

All the gold ore from the fabulous "Mother Lode" was brought to that smelter to be freed of its treasure. It was wonderful to lie on the warm sand of the beach and think of that treasure . . . but it was goshawful to smell it. Smelters and smells are no treat. They eat holes in your chicken-wire fences and other metallic gadgets. They also do things to Junior's breathing apparatus. They give him snivels . . . raise Cain generally. So it was a great day when science discovered that the smelters could "consume their own smoke." Maybe the smelter owners weren't so hot about it . . . but I never heard my Dad cuss so enthusiastically.

I was a very little girl when the smelter began "consuming its own smoke." I did not realize that a scientific miracle was happening. I only knew that the air was suddenly and beautifully clean. Fold upon golden fold, the hills slipped down to the bay . . . and fold upon fold the spiced tang of the autumn air swept over it all. The acid rasp that had gnawed our throats was gone. Instead there was a sweetness we had never known before.

THE BLACK FILES OF CHIMNEYS ACROSS THE BAY WERE CONSUMING THEIR OWN SMOKE . . . OUR LIVES HAD BEEN LIFTED CLEAR OF THEIR MENACE.

"Consume your own smoke"—many's the time, since, that I've remembered that old saying: Remembered it with tears and regret and shame. What an amount of pain I might have saved myself and others if I had "consumed my own smoke!"

For we humans cast off smoke in the process of living just as surely as any factory. Out of our speed and spite, our fear and fury, there comes a black and bitter residue. Long ago we learned how a factory might "consume its smoke." But we've still to learn how a human being may consume his . . . or, having learned, we forget!

We forget that smoke isn't merely a haze on the horizon . . . that it may be a murk on the soul. So, even when we have banished the nuisance of "smelter smoke" we may still have to reckon with other fumes equally deadly, the "smoke" of anger, fear, regret, hate and grief and spite.

"Consume your own smoke!" Never was there a truer law than that . . . never a one that needed a wider knowledge. For each one of us is spreading the miasma of some "smoke" . . . some secret sorrow or anger or remorse.

Don't let that darkness spread beyond yourself! Don't let its darkness poison other lives! Keep it within yourself! Purge it by your own courage!

CONSUME YOUR OWN SMOKE!

League of Women Voters.

In the twenty-one years since it was organized the League of Women Voters has reached full maturity and become a power for good government. In federal, state and local affairs it is a force for better citizenship not only among women but in the entire electorate.

The league operates in thirty-one states through 560 local leagues. As an organization for political education it works consistently to overcome that apathy at the polls which perpetuates machine control. Through many hard-fought campaigns it has established public confidence in the causes it advocates.

Endorsement by the league has helped forward-looking movements everywhere. It has no axes to grind and avoids narrow partisanship. At the present time it vigorously supports President Roosevelt's foreign policies and urges outright repeal of the Neutrality Act.

The League of Women Voters is no academic organization, content to endorse a good cause and let it go at that. Its members, trained to prompt political action, get out and work.—New York Times.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Not Ready for Pacific Showdown, Churchill Advises Against Move

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—U. S. diplomats are not shouting it from the housetops, but there have been two important occasions when the British put a very restraining hand on American foreign policy, and checked major moves in the South Atlantic and the Pacific.

One move was last May when it become conclusively apparent that the Vichy government was the tool of Hitler and when many U. S. strategists favored the taking of Martinique and the Azores, and perhaps even a landing force at Dakar in French West Africa.

But the Churchill government protested that this would take U. S. ships away from transporting supplies to the Battle of Britain; would focus American attention upon another part of the world. So Roosevelt kept out of the South Atlantic.

The second move was about two weeks ago when Mr. Churchill telephoned the president to advise against any showdown with the Japanese in the Pacific. His advice came shortly after the new pro-Nazi cabinet took office in Tokyo. Churchill urged that the battle in Europe was the main show and the United States should not get absorbed with sideshows.

Regarding this Churchill advice, there continues to be a wide rift inside the Roosevelt administration. And incidentally, there is not complete unity on this point inside the British government. Australian sentiment leans toward a cleaning up of the Pacific situation, after which all parts of the British empire, plus perhaps the United States, could concentrate on Europe.

Administration Rift.

INSIDE the Roosevelt administration, the men who urge a go-slow policy toward Japan are Admiral Stark, chief of naval operations, and the state department. On the other side are many of the other admirals, including Admiral Ernest King, commander of the Atlantic fleet, who says he can get along in the Atlantic merely with his present consignment of destroyers and light cruisers, which are all that are needed for convoying.

The first big point of the "strong policy" admirals is that every day of delay weakens the Russians, and the Russians are the big potential allies of the United States against Japan. With Russian bombing planes operating from Vladivostok against the paper and bamboo houses of Tokyo and Yokohama, the Japanese would be up against it.

The second big point urged by these admirals is one which not many people realize: When the United States went into the last war, Japan was on our side. There was no need to worry about the Pacific. But this time, the minute the U. S. A. becomes embroiled in Europe, it has to guard its back door against a traditional and very potent rival.

Therefore, argues the Pacific school within the navy, let's face our enemies one by one rather than have two jumping on us later and from opposite directions.

The is nothing the navy dreads more than the idea of attack in two oceans at once — attacks aimed at Alaska on one side and Brazil on the other. That is why some of the admirals so resent the phone calls from Winston Churchill.

U. S. Destroyers.

THE submarine situation which faced the Reuben James and now threatens all U. S. destroyers in the North Atlantic, is far different from that of the last war.

Today, German submarines operate in gangs or wolfpacks of three to five, lurking in the path of a convoy, and without putting their periscopes out of the water. They do not even run their engines. Thus the approaching destroyer cannot pick up the subs with its sound detector, but the subs, on the other hand, can hear the engines of the approaching convoy.

Then when the convoy is within range, the subs release their torpedoes, sometimes blind. In other words, they do not lift their periscopes but frequently fire merely in the direction of the approaching engines. Because convoys travel so close together these days, hits are almost certain.

Submarines fire blind chiefly in the daylight. At night, on the other hand, when the submarine cannot be seen, it comes to the surface.

This is one reason for the increased number of merchant vessel casualties since September, for as the nights become longer, U-boats have longer hours to operate on the surface.

Winter weather also has made the U-boats more difficult targets from the air. All summer, the British and American air fleets patrolled the North Atlantic. In calm weather the planes could easily spot submarines well below the surface. But with rough, choppy weather, aircraft have a hard time seeing very far under water. In addition to rough weather, there is the problem of fog.

Merry-Go-Round.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is being bombarded with urgent requests from midwestern Democratic leaders urging him to visit that section and make several speeches. He has not been in the area for more than a year and then didn't go farther than Cleveland. The politicos want him to make a trip with major stops at Detroit, Chicago and Indianapolis. . . . James Rowe, smart young White House secretary handling patronage matters, is leaving to take a new job as assistant attorney general. Rowe's White House duties will be taken over by veteran Secretary Marvin McIntyre, who used to have charge of the president's callers. . . . Administrationites preparing speeches on foreign affairs are priming themselves by reading "Is Tomorrow Hitler's," brilliant new book published by H. R. Knickerbocker, Pulitzer prize-winning foreign correspondent.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I was standing at the bar of a new nightclub just as the show went on. Six very pretty girls came out in a production number, and as they drifted into view a press agent came up and said:

"Pretty, aren't they? They're different. They aren't show girls. We didn't raid the musicals. We got them in the country. That blond girl there is Miss Minnesota. The one next to her is Miss Idaho. They're beauty contest winners, all of them. One of them came east with her chaperon, and the chaperon was so pretty we put her in the show too."

Later, the photographers were taking some pictures, and I stopped to talk with the girl with the coal black hair who had been identified as Miss Nebraska. What seemed odd was that she had a lunch pail with her. She was in the dressing room, seated before a large mirror. The table was a tumult of mascara and lipstick. She said, "I'm having my dinner. Have a piece of this cake."

"Did you bring your dinner all the way from Nebraska?" I asked.

"Nebraska?" She was puzzled.

"Aren't you from Nebraska?"

"G'wan," she told me. "I'm from Staten Island."

And she was. She brings her supper with her, and her father, a cop, calls for her every night.

Some press agents just can't understand why their stuff is heaved into the waste basket as fast as it arrives.

AT THE Rodeo the other night the cowboys spied Harry Carey sitting in a ringside box. "Hi, Harry, who's the filly with you?" they cried, riding up to shake hands. Harry is an old hand at horse wrangling himself. He knows all the boys.

But the "filly"—and she enjoyed the introduction immensely—was Betty Field, the actress, back on Broadway after seven months in the west, during which she made "King's Row" for Warner Brothers.

This was something of an about-face for Miss Field. On the stage she has always been cast as "good girls." In pictures, she, is always a girl "who falls by the wayside." If she can find a play, she will remain in New York and be a "good girl" all winter. If not, she has to return to Hollywood and "fall by the wayside" again.

James Whistler, the painter, was also the son of a Hessian father.

A Farmer's Diary

Runaway!

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AT THE VILLAGE postoffice this evening, I saw on the south wall of the small lobby, a poster with a photograph of a young girl. Beneath the picture was printed, in substance, Betty Smith, 13, weight about 125 pounds; red hair, freckled face, blue eyes, scar on the forehead. Her home, a small river town in southeastern Ohio. She hitchhiked from her home and may be anywhere in Ohio or adjacent states. Anyone knowing of her whereabouts notify the sheriff of her home county—his name and address given below.

I stopped to read the notice. As I stepped away, two youths of high school age came by.

"Spiffy lookin' gal, now ain't she?" one of them remarked to his companion. "Wouldn't mind meetin' her on the road myself. Red hair and freckles—and look at that baby's plump weight!"

"She's takin' a long chance, Mutt," the other said.

"Sure—but boy, look at all the experience she's gettin'. If twouldn't be too hard on the old man and woman at home, I'd like a whirl of running away, myself."

"I've often thought about it, too," said his friend in a whisper, "but I'd never breathe it to a soul."

Some older men and women stood about and read the notice. One grayheaded man said, partly to himself, "The youngsters today ain't like we used to be. There was 10 of us at home and every last one had to stay right there and work until he was 18. After that, if we wanted, we could "work out," and give Dad half our wages, for all of us knowed winter was comin' on and there'd be days when all we could do was eat and sleep . . . but we'd need to do that.

"That little redhead ain't so bad lookin', either—but only 13 and out alone on the road. Our old mother would've went wild! Wonder where this'n's mother is, anyway!"

"I'm goin' to watch cars and trucks from my window," said an old grandmother, "and if I see such a girl I'll have her caught up with. She can stay at my house while they notify her parents. 'Twon't cost 'em anything, either."

"What strange ideas young girls get," said a thoughtful young matron. "Why, when I was 13 I often thought of doin' that same thing. I used to dream to myself that I went away and got hurt or even killed, and I liked to speculate on how my parents and friends would mourn at my funeral. How sorry I knew they'd be when I was gone because they'd treated me so cruelly when I was alive . . . 'twas part of growing up, I guess. Poor child, I hope she's safe home again, by now! If she is, she'll realize in a few years more, how childish she has behaved!"

EASTER LILIES GO AMERICAN

Curb on Jap Trade With U. S. Boon To Lilies Growers In Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS — The less trade with Japan the better for down-river Plaquemines parish because the United States still will need its Easter lilies.

Heretofore Japan has sent 27,000,000 lily bulbs to America annually—about 97 per cent of this country's consumption, so the freezing of Japanese credits has given Louisiana's unique Creole lily, a cream-white plant, the chance of a lifetime.

The only other lily-growing spot in the country, besdes Plaquemines parish (county), is the northwest section of Oregon.

In Plaquemines new growers have crowded in and today some 350 families, about half the population, are engaged in lily cultivation, compared with 100 three years ago.

George Naquin, parish agricultural agent, has forecast a record crop of more than 1,000,000 bulbs for next year and during the fall the greatest number ever of bulblets will be placed in the soil. Drainage has made 6,000 new acres in the vicinity available for lily growing.

Today is harvest time Scores of residents of French, Polish or Italian descent are sifting the enriched mud through their fingers and taking the brown onion-like bulbs from the earth. Later they will sort them according to sizes and grades and box them for florists.

As compared with the Japanese plant, the Creole lily is green-ribbed instead of red-ribbed, larger, creamier and thicker, with more blooms to the stalk and a greater background of green leaves.

In the past two years much progress has been made against the only two enemies of the plant—freezes and "plant lice" or aphids. So lily-growers have an optimistic feeling that when they begin dropping thousands of bulblets into the soil for next year's crop they will be making a good start toward supplying a market that is no longer Japan's.

Opposing Labor Groups Team Up In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS — (INS) — A spirit of co-operation seldom noted between America's two great labor unions was displayed in New Orleans when the rival C. I. O. and A. F. of L. held concurrent parades—under each other's banners—through the main streets of the city.

A. F. of L. locals are credited with extending the invitation to the C. I. O. to allow one of its union locals to march on the A. F. of L. parade. The C. I. O., staging its first annual entourage, acquiesced and took a few A. F. of L. placards and flags in return, waving them at the head of the procession.

Though the parades were held at the same hour, their paths did not cross. In fact, at one point, where the processions came within a block of each other, bands in both parades were heard playing "God Bless America" simultaneously, in a wonderful spirit of co-operation and mingled discord.

CHAPTER XV

Wherefore, on the Friday afternoon of the masque, Joy was at Paradise Ranch early. She was too keyed up to notice that Polly seemed depressed. She laughed and chattered almost too much. Ward McMurray beamed constantly at her during dinner. He tried to tease the two girls. He, as a matter of fact, might have noticed that his sister was lacking her usual verve, but for the fact that Joy Boone held all of his attention.

Immediate interest after dinner was the business of dressing—always a pleasure when there is to be a masquerade.

Under Polly's guidance, Joy was to be converted into an Apache Indian maiden. "Best way in the world to conceal your identity!" Polly had declared. "You're a golden blond, with skin as fair as a girl's from England. But when we get through with you— yippee!"

A Phoenix costume shop had strained itself to order the proper things, some of them quite expensive. And now in her room Polly was converting Joy from the white race to the red.

"First thing is a coating of bronzy-brown," she said. "It's just theatrical paint, comes off easily when you're done. Then we'll high-light the cheeks to make them bulge like an Indian's."

"What about my hands?"

"We ordered gloves—remember? And you have very long sleeves."

There was a complete wig. False hair, coal black, and dressed like that of an Apache girl at an important tribal ceremonial. It completely hid Joy's blond ringlets which they tied up on top. Even at this stage Joy Boone was another person. Before the mirror she and Polly admired their work on her, laughing and noting the complete change even though as yet Joy wore only the wig, the paint, a bra and scanties.

They decided on silk hose and regular slippers because the costume dresses would hide them anyway. Authentic Indian footwear would make paleface dancing next to impossible, "and I do love to dance!"

Crowning glory of her costume was the petticoats.

First, a gray one. Then a black, then a crimson, then a blue.

"Honest, Polly, however did anybody wear these things? So many of them! Were they really like this? Honest?"

Polly laughed. "Still are! The Indian women all go in for quantity of dresses, heel length."

Broad ruffles adorned each petticoat; and the outer dress, a figured print, was ruffled all over and further decorated with lace. Finally, there was a blanket. It was Navajo weave, but Polly explained that the Apaches often bartered for the other Indian's blankets, which were of rich woolen beauty and quality. It would make ideal warmth for the night ride on Ken's open jallopy.

"You must remember to act the part as well as look it," Polly warned Joy repeatedly. "Giggle a lot if you can—that's Indian girl style. But don't talk. Not naturally. Remember there's a prize for the most authentic masque, and all."

It was perhaps characteristic of Joy that she gave no thought this evening to Polly's own costume. Did not, in fact, remember even to ask about it, or offer to help. All Joy's life she had accepted aid and service and courtesies from others, paying for it in her own way. It was not a matter of selfishness, but a matter of habit. She would have been most contrite—if she had simply remembered at all. But she didn't. She was all jittery now with anticipation. Concerned with her own evening's success, with Ken Palmer.

Ken arrived shortly after Joy was ready. "Go meet him!" Polly commanded, somewhat frantically now. "I—I can't go out. I'm not dressed. Remember, don't talk much! Act!"

But she did peep out a crack. Ken was disguised as Coronda, the most famous of all Spanish conquistadores in Arizona's history. His athletic build in the conqueror's suit of armor and helmet and spear did in truth make him impressive. The helmet served as a masque. He roared in speech, acting his part too. In hiding, Polly held her breath while Joy greeted him there in the semi-darkness of the front porch.

Most of their greeting was in gesture. Joy giggled, then spoke a word or two in affected deep tones, as she doubtless imagined an Indian girl might speak. Actually it was comical if one knew, but Ken didn't. He took her arm and led his "Indian" girl to his jaloppy, put her in the seat beside him and drove away.

"He doesn't know!" Polly whispered to herself, looking out wide-eyed with excitement. "He thinks I am sitting beside him! He thinks the Indian girl is me!"

Buffalo Bill himself stepped right out of the pages of history and walked down the hallway of the Paradise Ranch home at a quarter of nine . . . He was whistling merrily.

"Hey, hold on!" he halted abruptly, swaggering a little. "Where's your outfit, Miss? It's getting late."

"You look grand, Ward."

"You didn't answer me. What's the score?"

"You're taking Sue Rivers, aren't you?" Polly evaded his questions.

"Right. Who's taking you? And why aren't you dressed? I thought I heard you and the blond dream sashaying around out here."

"You did. Joy's gone. K—Her escort just left with her. You even have Buffalo Bill's stature. And your curls, dar-ling!"

"Nuts to that. Answer me!"

"I'm not going."

He looked straight at her, until she averted her gaze. "Hunh" he grunted.

"You don't have to know everything just because you're my brother!" She tried to pout.

"No dice, kid. Keep talking."

"I don't feel well. Anyway I hadn't planned to go. I'm—I have a severe cold."

He stood spraddle-legged, surveying her up and down, hands on hips.

"No sneezing. No coughing. No nose blowing. No fever. No congestion. Nuts, Sis. You never have colds. You're as healthy as a horse. Now what is it? Talk, or I'll have to trim you down to my size and—"

She was in his arms all at once, sobbing against his powerful chest.

"Little Sis . . . Little Sis!" He comforted her as if she were 10 years old. "What is it, Kid? Whose chin you want me to punch, hmmm? . . . Say, hold on! I thought something was said about you and Ken Palmer. Didn't you tell me that he had asked you? A few days back? Wasn't that Ken just took Joy off?"

That opened Polly's heart, then. She told Ward what she had done. Told him the truth, if not the whole truth. Told him she had purposely substituted Joy Boone, masked even from her own escort, to go to the ball with Ken Palmer.

"S-she—she a-asked me to!" Polly explained. "Asked me to fix it for her, Wardy. Darn it, I'm such a baby! I cry at the slightest thing here lately. She's crazy about Ken. She admits it to me—don't you tell! She asked me to make Ken take her tonight, and she's my friend, Ward. She is, I tell you! She's honest. She can't help it if she's rich. She does the nicest things for people. Ken's bashful as possible, you know that, so I just wangled them together."

"Unh; Unh! Unh!" Ward was incredulous, but fascinated too. Fascinated by what he called the mysterious mechanism of a woman's mind. He pressed her for as many details as he could. Then he started popping orders.

"Go get dressed!" He gave her a shove. "Anything! Quick. You're going with me and Sue! . . . Don't argue! You're going if I have to drag you. Get one of the Mexican maids' costumes. You're the best looking senorita on the border, anyway. Go on, doggone it!"

She had to obey him. Moreover, she did so with a certain zest. The truth was that she really wanted to go badly, for curiosity itself is a powerful thing even if she had had no other interest in this evening's festivity.

Ward McMurray had not exaggerated when he called his Sis the prettiest senorita. She came to him in a quarter-hour and he gave one look and breathed, "Whe-e-eeuw! I wish I wasn't your bud!"

"Hush! But I love you for it!"

She had on a magnificent costume of green satin. The dress flared wide. There was a bright yellow belt. One huge red rose adorned her hair, which was an ebony cascade in background for her facial contour and coloring. She was adjusting a conventional black mask, but she paused once to kiss Buffalo Bill in gratitude. Finally she put a large, fringed, silken shawl around her shoulders, a crimson creation which her father had brought her three years ago from Mexico City.

They cut by the Rivers ranch and picked up Sue, and when the three of them reached the Civic Auditorium in Phoenix the room was already well filled. Approximately 500 couples were present. Moreover, it presented a spectacular sort of gaiety. Ward's and Polly's, and Sue's Puritan Girl costume, all were in harmony with the others there, for this was the one time each year when collegians in Phoenix went the limit.

Ten minutes after their arrival the grand march started.

"It's Dr. Pal, all right!" Polly breathed, to Sue. "He's so erect; and happy as a kid, I bet! That's Bettina Carlson with him. Joy's secretary."

"They look like students themselves."

"She's ever so nice. So is he."

"Check."

Sue and Ward were going to stay out of the march, in deference to Polly. But she would have none of it. Tactfully she disappeared into the women's lounge until it was over. She heard the music swell and sing, and in her heart was a longing, but she stuck it out alone.

Sue came for her immediately it was over. Ward danced with her next, and in a moment boys had begun to recognize the lovely "Mexican senorita" for the person she was, and so started cutting in. Ward knew his Sis would be squired sufficiently from now on.

Nevertheless he did not desert her, he and Sue. They were all together when the moment for unmasking came at midnight, and it may or may not have been chance that enabled them to be within a few feet of "Coronado" and the "Apache maiden." Polly suspected that Ward had deliberately engineered it so.

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE

Our assignment: Building Pratt & Whitney valve-in-head aircraft engines for defense use.

MAYBE it's a little hard to picture this trim Buick as it will look on that unknown day when you come to turn it in.

There may be scars in its fenders, and use-stains on its upholstery—but the thing that matters is it'll still be going great guns.

You can count on that husky valve-in-head straight-eight to be ticking off the miles with the satisfying extra efficiency it now boasts.

You can rely on Compound Carburetion† to hold your gas-costs down, squeezing every last power-packed mile out of the fuel you burn.

There won't be any loss of easy comfort in those all-coil springs, or any need for care to keep them gentle.

As for the drive—well, there's just nothing to go wrong with a simple steel shaft encased in a stout torque tube!

†Available at slight extra cost on Buick SPECIAL models, standard on all other Series.

Tires? You may be through the second or third set before you're finished with any car you buy now—but those Buick broad-rim wheels will see to it you get the top mileage each can give.

As for such things as connecting rods and bearings—Buick rods are extra strong, while tests show that our oil-cushioned bearings last twice as long as others under the same load and service.

So go right ahead! Buy this Buick on its last mile instead of its first. That's the smart way to buy these times.

Of this you can be sure: No other car's going to offer greater surety of long, pleasurable, dependable service—so if you can get a Buick now, better grab it!

No other car has

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I WONDERED if Lillian could see the trembling of my fingers as with pencil clutched in them I waited to hear the signature of the queer telegram which the operator just had given to me over the wire. It did not matter anyway, I told myself drearily. It was only a matter of seconds before I should have to repeat the telegram to her, with all its sinister investment of threats against Marion.

"The signature," the telegram operator said, "is Thomas Morton and company."

I almost dropped the pencil at this last bizarre touch, the signing of this threatening telegram with the name of Marion's long dead father, the rascally adventurer of two hemispheres who had made Lillian's life sheer hell in the days of Marion's babyhood.

The gangsters who were holding Marion in captivity were familiar with every detail of her history, I told myself, even as I listened to a last query from the telegraph operator.

Wants Telegram Traced

"Do you wish me to repeat this?" he asked, "or do you wish to read it back to me?"

"No, thank you," I replied mechanically. "But," I added, with a sudden thought. "Will you find out when and how that telegram came in, the exact time, and then call us back? This is most important."

"Yes, I'll do that right away," he said. "Good-bye."

"Good-bye," I replied, and hung up the telephone, turning to find Lillian's eyes fairly burning into mine, although her voice when she spoke showed that she had herself well in hand, and was fulfilling her promise to save her strength and "be good" for the sake of effectually aiding her idolized daughter.

"It isn't an ordinary message," she said calmly but accusingly.

"No, it isn't," I said. "It evidently is from the people who wish to contact you tomorrow evening."

"What is the signature?" she asked, putting her finger uncannily on the thing which I most dreaded to have her know, the thing which would shock her most.

But there was no way I could spare her, and I made my voice flat and mechanical as I spoke the name.

"Thomas Morton and company," I said, and Lillian gave a sharp intake of the breath.

"Oh, dear God in Heaven!" she exclaimed, and her husband smothered a fierce imprecation with a spurring adjuration.

"Don't let it get you, Sweet!" he urged. "Remember, they're trying to break your resistance in every way they can. Don't play into their hands."

"I won't," she said. "I'll be quiet. Will you read the telegram, please, Madge."

Madge Reads Telegram to Her

I looked at Miss Whitlock, and she gave an imperceptible nod of the head. Then I took up the copy I had made and read the weird thing aloud, wondering if I dared elide or minimize the sinister threat of its last sentences.

I decided against it before I reached it, reasoning that Marion's mother was entitled to every scrap of knowledge concerning her captive daughter, no matter how much agony it entailed. That was the penalty of parenthood, I reflected, with the knowledge of how I would react were I in Lillian's place.

Unerringly, when I finished, she pounced upon the sinister phraseology I hated to repeat.

Senses the Threat.

"Do you hear that, Harry?" she demanded. "'We can be Shylocks, if we are compelled to do so by your disregard of our instructions.' You know what that means; the pound of flesh, Marion's flesh. They are threatening to kill or torture her!"

"And I'll wager you that is all it is, a threat," the big man said robustly, and something in his voice gave me unexpected and needed comfort.

"Don't think I am minimizing the seriousness of this whole thing," he said. "It is bad enough, and I am afraid we are going to have some hard sledding before we get to the end of the trail. But I've had a good deal of experience with these written threats, and to my mind such flourishes are put in purposely to frighten you. They want to be sure you will put in an appearance tomorrow night."

"They may be very sure," Lillian said, firmly reiterating her former dictum. "I shall be there."

Ham Loaf of Spicy Flavor Is Economical

By BETSY NEWMAN

I was served a ham loaf recently that had a special flavor that was very toothsome. I identified the flavor as mustard and will pass the recipe on to you. A good meat loaf is an economical main dish and is good to the last crumb, hot or cold.

* * *

Today's Menu.

Spicy Ham Loaf
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Spinach Golden Glow Salad
Stewed Fruit Cookies
Coffee or Tea

* * *

Spicy Ham Loaf.

1 lb. fresh lean pork
½ lb. smoked ham
½ cup bread crumbs
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¾ cup milk
½ cup tomato juice

Mix ingredients together and bake 1½ hours in 350 degree oven.

* * *

Golden Glow Salad.

1 package lemon gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup canned pineapple juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup grated raw carrot
1 cup diced canned pineapple

Add boiling water to gelatin, add pineapple juice and cool, when it begins to thicken add other ingredients and turn into mold. Serves 10.

* * *

Candied Sweet Potatoes.

6 medium-sized sweet potatoes
½ cup brown sugar
2 to 3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup water

Scrub potatoes and cook in boiling water until almost tender, about 20 minutes. Drain and peel. Cut in lengthwise slices and arrange in shallow baking dish, sprinkling each layer with brown sugar and dotting with bits of butter. Moisten with water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until potatoes are tender, from 20 to 30 minutes. If you wish you may cover the tops of the potatoes with marshmallows before baking.

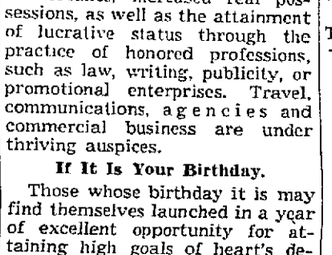
"The Authority on Authorities"

TRY YOUR RUSE EARLY

IF YOU are going to try to "put a fast one over" on your opponent in the play, making him think your holding is different from what it is, and so luring him into a disastrous play, your best chance is to do it early. If you cause a number of tricks to be completed before you attempt the ruse, he may by that time have a pretty good reading of your hand, and so will not fall for your trickery.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♥	Dbl	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT

Bidding went further than that at various tables of a rather strong duplicate game, but stopped right there at two of them. Peculiarly, the same defensive ruse was tried at both of them, succeeding at one, but failing at the other, though the declarers at the two tables were of about equal ability. The difference was that one tried the stunt early, and the other late.

In each case the heart 2 was led to the K. One East immediately switched to the diamond Q, to make South believe West had the A. South fell for it and played low. Then the J came along, which South also ducked, hoping that the A was now alone in West's hand, and would have to be played, or that it was now doubleton and would block the suit if West played low and let the J win. The A then dropped South's K, making the poor devil boiling mad, whereupon the set-up 9 was followed by the heart 3 to the A, holding the declarer to exactly 1 No Trump.

At the other table, after winning the first trick with the heart K, East led the 3 to the 10 and A, and the 4 was returned to the J and Q. The club 9 to the K made possible a lead of the spade J to the Q and A, and the spade 8 was sent to the K. East led his diamond Q South, however, had already seen West play the heart A and reckoned there would have been some bidding by that worthy if he had held two aces, so he came in with his K, followed with three more club tricks, the spade 10 and the heart 9, taking all told a total of 10 tricks and giving up a diamond trick at the end.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West plays this deal at 4-Spades at one table and South at another table is doubled at 4-Diamonds, what extreme contrast is presented by the two different forms of play used by the declarers?

Legal status for the Nazi party was denied by Brazil in 1934.

How much better will you feel after you begin getting all your vitamins? The only way to find out is to try. Vimms may help you feel better than you ever thought you could. And it only costs a few cents to know.

60 WOMEN EMPLOYED AT NEW AVIATION TRAINING FIELD

(By International News Service)

OKLAHOMA CITY—From the Army flying fields of the country has come story after story of the pilots' exploits, the planes they fly, the cities and states they hail from, but little has been said about the women who fill their posts at Uncle Sam's aviation training centers.

Yes, women have their place in the Army and 60 of them at the Will Rogers Field, a new light-bombardment base in the Fourth Air Force, near Oklahoma City, work daily with the 2,200 officers and enlisted men on the reservation.

These women take care of the many jobs requiring the feminine touch and soldiers who expected to see nary a feminine face in the Army have discovered some pretty ones greeting them day by day.

In the various departmental offices at the base and in the post exchange, where soldiers purchase all kinds of personal effects as well as ice cream, cigarettes, soda pop and other needs of the inner man, the ladies are ready to serve with a smile.

Some of them are married and most of them come daily by bus or automobile from Oklahoma City where the majority live. All must show passes, issued by the Bureau of Identification to civilians who work at the base, before they are admitted each day.

Most of the girls work in such departments as quartermaster supply, the schools office, public relations office, base engineering department, base operations office, base headquarters and base personnel.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, can't be surpassed, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2½ cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really amazing cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

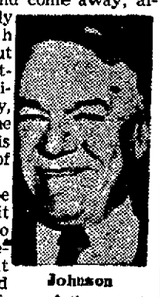
GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Our missions and individuals go to Moscow, are personally conducted about the ancient city, finally wind up with a graciously received visit by the bloody Stalin and come away, almost invariably bursting with confidence about Russian resistance and ultimate victory. Then they come home to sell this country a bill of goods.



Johnson

It all may be O. K., but it seems to me to contain an element of great gullibility and the possibility of one of the greatest rookings one nation ever got from its own representatives.

How the hell can a rather naive young man like Averill Harriman tell what Russian powers of resistance are by listening through an interpreter to a man who, excepting only Adolf Hitler, has proved himself the biggest liar, and double-crosser in our generation?

This is a strange war. There have been few others in which even neutral nations have not had some military observers with the field armies and, so far as I know there have been none where allied, or associated, or friendly powers have not had them.

Subjected to increasingly rigid censorship and control, the press of such countries has also followed the armies. I may be wrong but I have not heard of any of our missions (which have gone to Russia to determine whether we should pass them out a few billions in armament, even in advance of our own national defense) being allowed to observe the armies and the fighting in the field.

If that isn't buying a pig in a poke, I don't know an example. I keep asking myself as I look at the map of Europe and Asia, if we were planning this war ourselves, would we be sending vast quantities of war materials we so sorely need ourselves through the three almost absurdly impossible routes to Russia, without knowing more of the military situation than this? On our lives we wouldn't—but we are not conducting the strategy of this war. Mr. Churchill is and, as for his information derived from the Beaverbrook mission — I have met Lord Beaverbrook and I wouldn't care any more for his military conclusions gotten in this way than I would for Mr. Harriman's —and that isn't much.

One almost incredible aspect of these pro-consular reports to our republic is the obvious effort to "sell" our people the frankness, geniality, cordiality and general desirability as an associate like Mr. Stalin.

In war, you can't look at the piety of the sources from which help comes. You leave those questions until later. But that doesn't mean that you have to fool yourself into a sort of sloe-eyed innocence in the meantime. This half-savage Georgian is one of the bloodiest, most cruel, treacherous tyrants and anti-religionist the world has ever produced. His fingers drip with the blood or more of his own countrymen than any other murderous despot. The idea of suddenly discovering in him, on one visit to Moscow, or pretending to the American people to have discovered acceptable qualities is nauseating and the people who in their zeal do that seem to have lost all sense of human values and American principle and precedent.

Maybe it is necessary for us to go wholly crazy and stop thinking altogether in order to go to war, but you can be sure that the cool crafty brain of such men as Stalin and Hitler don't do that—or they do it in a very different way.

Workers at Six Factories Offer Sympathy Walkout In Welder's Dispute.

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—A jurisdictional strike of welders at three Southern California aircraft plants threatened today to spread to six factories and imperil $3,783,000,000 (B) worth of bomber, fighter and trainer construction.

A spokesman for the United Aircraft Welders association, an independent union, said that members at Douglas, North American, Vultee, Northrop, Ryan and Solar plants had offered to join the 450 welders already out at Lockheed, Vega and Consolidated.

"The offer of a sympathy strike has not yet been accepted," the spokesman said. "It is under consideration."

The plants already struck hold $1,283,000,000 (B) worth of contracts for planes for the United States and Britain. The other six plants hold contracts totaling about $2,500,000,000 (B).

Union officials said that almost all of the organization's 450 welders had answered yesterday's strike call at Lockheed, Vega and Consolidated and that if the strike continues the plants which employ 78,000 persons, eventually will be forced to close.

Company officials said, however, that even with all the welders out production will continue uninterrupted. Enough other employes who know welding, they said, are available to fill vacancies.

While their dispute threatened to spread, a parallel walkout of 8,000 shipyard welders neared conclusion after two weeks. Tacoma and Los Angeles welders whose strike affected $650,000,000 worth of defense shipbuilding voted last night to accept a mediation proposal by Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management, and to return to work immediately.

SENATORS CALM

See Passage of Neutrality Change Friday Night.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Calm and confident, the senators who favor sharp revision of the neutrality act were content to listen to another day's debate today, assuring each other meanwhile that they had the votes necessary for passage by tomorrow night.

Even one of the anti-revisionists, Senator Van Nuys (D.,Ind.) conceded that the chamber would approve the pending measure which would authorize the arming of American merchantmen and also permit them to sail to belligerent ports. Van Nuys said he expected only about 40 of the senate's 96 votes to be cast against the bill.

A personal poll by another foe of the measure, who withheld his name, indicated a 52-to-44 victory for revision if all senators voted. On the other hand, Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.) said that "there still are enough uncommitted senators to beat the bill."

FLOOD CREST PASSES LEVEE

Dykes Hold, Danger Lessens Along Arkansas River.

LITTLE ROCK—(INS)—Fears of additional flood damaged eased considerably today at the flood crest of the Arkansas river passed the endangered Morrilton levee section without a break-through.

U. S. Army engineers had directed crews of workmen for three days in strengthening the levees at Morrilton against the high water, and because of these efforts the dykes held, sparing most of a section of 40,000 acres of rich farmland.

At various points upstream, between 100,000 and 150,000 acres of farmland were inundated.

The lord mayors court at Mansion house found Coward guilty of charges of failing to register United States securities with the Bank of England.

FOUR PERISH IN BIG HOTEL FIRE

12 Others Injured as Flames Sweep Building at Alexandria, Va.

(By International News Service)

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Four persons were burned to death and twelve others received minor injuries as a general alarm fire swept through the Monticello hotel early today.

The bodies of J. J. Quinn, of Kingston, Pa.; R. Niski, a Japanese chauffeur of New York City, and D. L. Howland, a regular roomer at the hotel, were discovered on the top floor of the four-story brick building.

The fourth victim, identified as Howard Tabb, of Holdenville, Okla., died shortly after arrival at a hospital.

For more than an hour, as eleven fire trucks fought the blaze, the fire threatened to spread to adjacent buildings, which included landmarks of the historic Virginia city.

A hotel clerk estimated there were between 35 and 40 guests registered in the hotel at the time of the alarm, but said most of the guests were transients. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

BLIND MAYOR-ELECT CONFIDENT HE'LL GET AKRON LABOR UNITY

(By Associated Press)

AKRON — The "rubber capital's" mayor-elect, blind George J. Harter, was the city's first mayoral candidate to get the support of both the AFL and the CIO—which gives point to his post-election observation:

"I know that the rank and file of Akron labor are in favor of labor unity and I am confident I can get AFL and CIO leaders to sit down around the conference table and iron out their difficulties in an amicable manner.

"Labor should be together in one union."

Harter, Democratic member of the Ohio house, unseated the three-term Republican incumbent, Lee D. Schroy, by a margin of more than 5,000 votes.

When he takes office Jan. 1, he'll find himself up against a raft of civic problems, but the good-natured, soft-spoken Harter is confident he can surmount them.

The city's finances are in bad shape, despite the fact that Akron payrolls are souring as a result of defense orders. At the same election that brought Harter into office, the voters defeated a relief levy, a bond issue for long-overdue fire department equipment, and a bond issue for repairs to the city's disposal plant. Political observers estimate that Akron will face a $300,000 deficit next year.

Harter is backing a proposal to take the allocation of state sales tax revenues away from the legislature and distribute them 60 per cent to the schools and 40 per cent to the local governments.

"Akron would get more than a million dollars back under this plan," he estimates, "more than enough to take care of the city's deficit."

TWO MEETINGS

700 Richland Farmers Plan To Attend F-B Sessions.

Two meetings expected to attract more than 700 Richland county Farm Bureau members were announced today by W. B. Davis, bureau manager.

The first, the annual Richland county Farm Bureau meeting, will be held Monday in the First Methodist church with an expected attendance of approximately 400.

Darwin Bryan of Columbus, director of youth activities for the Ohio Farm Bureau, will address this meeting.

Other features of the annual meet will be choral music by the Richland County Farm Bureau chorus, election of new officers for the coming year, and a compilation of reports of the year's activities.

The second meeting will be held in Columbus, Nov. 27 and 28.

A gathering of the entire membership of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, it is expected to draw between 300 and 350 Richland county members to meetings in the Columbus auditorium.

COLLECTIONS AHEAD

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Total collections under the sales tax law are $51,447,530, or $10,625,636 ahead of the same period last year, State Treasurer Don Ebright's weekly report showed today.

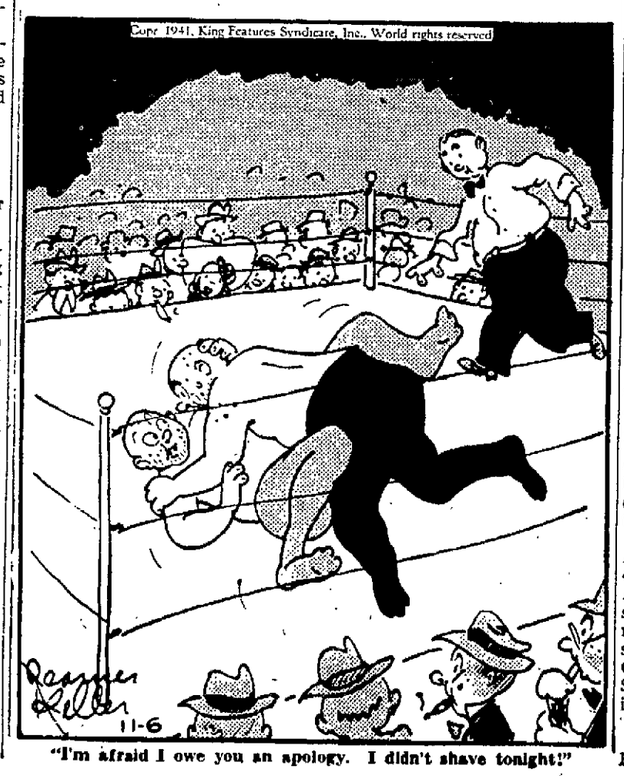
RAISES ROOF

Akron Man Lights Cigaret, Escaped Gas Does the Rest.

AKRON — (U.P.) — Paul Viers awakened last night and heard gas escaping. He turned off the jet in his room, went back to bed and lit a cigaret.

Viers was in a hospital today with severe burns. The roof of his room was raised two inches by the explosion set off by his match. Silverware from his room was blown across the street.

Laff-a-Day



"I'm afraid I owe you an apology. I didn't shave tonight!"

Some motorists go to great lengths to get away from the city's parking restrictions but Mansfield police yesterday came across one which they believe tops them all. A conductor from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad telephoned police headquarters to have police remove an auto from the railroad tracks. Police found that a driver had parked on a sidetrack used for switching cars. They ordered the car towed to a garage.

Probably the most difficult votes to tabulate in Tuesday's election were those cast for the two board of education posts in the Union Rural district, although there were no candidates for the offices. Election board figures showed today that 12 persons received votes for the offices, some of them only one vote each. The names were written in by voters. Robert Smith and John Humbert were the winners in the free-for-all contest.

Mansfielders like their street names fancier than their pioneer ancestors did. Old-timers preferred Market street, Reservoir street, Diamond street and simple names taken from noted families or trees. Twentieth century residents like Park avenue, boulevards, drives, places and other names reminiscent of Hollywood. The latest petition for the naming of a street will be considered by city council tonight. The petition carries the request that the "first alley east of Boughton avenue on West Fifth street be known as "Beverly drive."

SHOT IN FLIGHT

Boy Killed as Policeman's Bullet Ricochets.

AKRON — (U.P.) — A bullet that ricocheted after being fired by Policeman James Mallo killed 14-year-old Richard Reed early today when Reed ignored a command to halt.

Mallo and Paul Morgan drove their police cruiser to Reed's home to investigate the theft of an automobile. Reed ran from a parked car and Mallo followed him.

Mallo said he fired two shots after he had ordered the boy to stop. One was fired into the air and the other into the ground, Mallo said, and Reed cried: "Come and get me. I think I'm shot."

The boy was dead when an ambulance arrived. Dr. R. E. Amos, coroner, gave a verdict of "justifiable homicide."

Boy Hit By Car, Gets Police To Take Package To Home.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Dennis Kuby, 7, was hurrying home with a package of groceries and was injured by an automobile.

Still clinging to his package when the police ambulance drove up, he told officers he couldn't go to the hospital because "mom needs this stuff for supper."

After insisting that the package be taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kuby, he gave in. At Mt. Sinai hospital it was found he had a fractured hip, abrasions and possible internal injuries.

U. S. Technicians, Two Canadians Reported Lost as British Ship Sunk.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—American loss of lives in the grim battle of the Atlantic today rose to at least 140 as 17 more United States citizens were reported missing.

The British press service announced in Washington that the 17 American and two Canadian volunteers for the British civilian technical corps were presumably in the submarine sinking of the British merchanship carrying them to England.

Telegrams of condolence were sent to the next of kin of the missing indicating that hope for their rescue has been abandoned.

While it was disclosed that the British ship was part of a convoy there were no details as to the date it was sunk or the area in which it went down.

British press service officials said that as far as could be ascertained the 19 volunteers, mostly experts in radio and related fields, are the first to have met harm in the hazardous Atlantic crossing of hundreds recruited since last June to help Britain's radiolocators and other technical devices.

The latest loss of American life came as the navy checked its list of 97 men lost on the destroyer Reuben James. It is tracing reports that four of these said to be missing were erroneously reported aboard the craft when it met its fate in the icy waters of the North Atlantic.

The navy confirmed a report that Lewis Aubrey Turner, seaman, of Rio Hondo, Tex., also perished with the Reuben James.

The list of those lost in the latest disaster involving the British ship follows:

Americans.

William J. Ash, 33, aircraft metal worker, Weehawken, N. J.
John D. Barter, 45, radio expert, Altadena, Calif.
John A. Blain, 23, electrician, Brooklyn, N. Y.
D. C. Blossom, 30, radio mechanic, Oklahoma City, Okla.
James F. Countryman, 36, auto mechanic, Elkhart, Ind.
A. L. Crosby, 43, instrument repairer, San Francisco (mother, Mrs. Carrie Pelton, 90 Brooklyn avenue, San Jose, Calif.)
George Easton, 26, metal worker, Absecon, N. J.
Robert E. Folk, 22, radio operator, Polo, Ill.
Philip Gilfond, 21, instrument repairer, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Reginald Godfrey, jr., 25, machine tool setter, Saylesville, R. I.
Michael McNulty, 31, auto mechanic, South Orange, N. J.
Joseph Price, 30, radio expert, Newark, N. J.
Harry P. Simonson, 32, electrician, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Charles Singer, 26, radio mechanic, Jamaica, Long Island.
John C. Speer, 26, radio mechanic, Vallejo, Calif.
Clarence L. Stratton, 23, radio operator, McClearly, Wash.
Andros Templeton, 22, radio mechanic, Beecher City, Ill.

Canadians.

William C. Andrew, 20, radio mechanic, Sarnia, Ont.
T. C. Sines, 39, radio mechanic, Montreal (father, T. C. Sines, sr., now in Sarasota, Fla.)

Dreams Her Son's Dead Before She Gets Notification

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— The mother of Charles Singer, a radio mechanic who volunteered for the technical corps of the Royal Air Force, dreamed he was dead a short time before she was notified that he and 18 other civilians were missing on a ship bound for Britain and presumed to have been sunk in the Atlantic.

"He was a good boy," she sobbed. "Why did he go? Why did he go? I know he is dead. I dreamed he was dead."

Singer, 26, was one of 17 Americans and two Canadians on the vessel, which was announced as missing last night by the British Press service.

The service indicated hope had been abandoned, and said telegrams of condolence had been sent to the next of kin of the missing.

BOOM ERA SEEN IN AIR FREIGHT

Veteran Pilot Says Freight Will Utilize Planes After Emergency.

(By United Press)

LINCOLN, Neb. — What to do with the nation's swollen airplane construction program after the defense emergency offers no problem for I. V. Packard, secretary of the Nebraska aeronautics commission.

With confidence in the future of commercial aviation, Packard points to the possibilities of air freight transportation as the answer to the problem of using planes turned out by an abnormally large industry.

"Despite the enormous growth of air passenger travel and the flying of great numbers of aircraft by private owners in the near future," Packard said," the greatest growth in civil aviation will occur in the air freight transportation field."

Packard, a veteran pilot who learned to fly during the World war, explained business men studying the possibilities of air freight transportation have found a way to keep plane factories in operation when the military demand slackens.

"Even with the present high cost of equipment, scarcity of personnel, and other high operating costs," he said, "air freight today can be transported long distances at a little more than six cents per ton mile.

"It has been learned that an airplane of known design and performance in the future will carry 50 tons of freight, cruise 300 miles an hour, and sell for $300,000."

Packard said eight such planes, flying 60 or 70 hours each week, could carry more than 63,000 tons of freight to Europe in a year.

An average steam freighter of 10,000 tons, he said, carries 6,000 tons of freight to Europe eight times a year and could make 10 trips and carry 60,000 tons a year. Freighters cost more than $2,000,000 each to build.

"Thus we have a picture of the possibility of carrying more freight to Europe in one year by air than can be carried in the same time by freighters—and with approximately the same initial investment for equipment," he added.

Packard, a former New York newspaper man, also pointed out that air carriers could be built so quickly—especially by the expanded industry—that large scale freight transportation might not wait for ship construction.

AID RED CROSS

J. A. C. To Make Membership Check of Township.

Peter Schadek, secretary of the Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce, announced today that in order to aid the Red Cross in its membership drive, three teams of two men each would spend Monday canvassing Sandusky township for new and renewal memberships.

Under Schadek's supervision, twelve Jayceers, captained by Robert Moore and Conrad Diehm, will tour Sandusky township in an attempt to get the quota for that territory.

Charles Robertson, chairman of the J. A. C. fire prevention committee, said that the club was quite pleased with the vote on the one-half mill levy. Between 300 and 350 posters urging passage of the levy were nailed to telephone poles by four members of his committee, and the citizens' committee for adequate fire prevention.

CURED OF PNEUMONIA

AUBURN, Me.—(U.P.)—Among other duties performed during the winter by Deputy Sheriff Ralph A. Wagg was the leader of an expedition into the woods near Labrador Pond bearing medicine and food to a sick moose which ultimately was pulled through a siege of pneumonia.

Ex-Tiger Wins

One-time infielder for the Detroit Tigers' baseball team, William G. (Billy) Rogell above, has been elected to Detroit city council. Rogell won one of the three seats vacated by the conviction of three councilmen on bribery charges in connection with a low-cost housing project.

BROMFIELD TO SPEAK FRIDAY

Author Louis Bromfield, vice president of the national organization of France Forever, will speak in Columbus Friday night at a meeting sponsored by the Columbus committee of the organization.

The meeting to be held at 8 p. m. in the Columbus Art Gallery is the second since the Columbus committee of France Forever was formed in August with Prof. Robert E. Rockwood of the department of romance languages, Ohio State university, as temporary chairman.

Sound motion pictures of Free French forces in England and Africa, including remarks by Gen. Charles DeGaulle, will be shown. Funds raised by the national organization are used chiefly to finance daily broadcasts to France and her colonies over WRUL, Boston.

Madison Rams Set to Slosh Through St. Wendelin

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"I wish," says Appleseed Coach Harry Mehock, who also acts as athletic director of Mansfield schools in his spare time, "that you would thank the North Lake Park association for us for the use of their benches at the Canton McKinley game Friday night."

The North Lark park association may consider itself duly thanked.

Permission to place the benches on the cinder track at Stadium field Friday night does both the high school and Mansfield football fans a favor.

Not only will 1,000 more fans get to see the game, but the high school athletic fun will benefit by $500 through this addition to the seating capacity of Stadium field for this game.

The rush with which tickets for the McKinley game were grabbed up by Mansfield fans again serves to point out the limited seating capacity of Stadium field.

There hasn't been nearly the excitement over this game that there was for the Massillon trip, when 5,000 Mansfielders, enough to fill the Stadium stands, made the trip by special train and automobile to see the Tygers' big game of the season

Without all the hurrah and talk of state championships, and revenge, that went with the Massillon game, Mansfield bought out the stadium a week before the McKinley tilt.

There'll come a day when Mansfield will have to do something about a bigger stadium or go back to playing schools that draw within its capacity. And those schools won't fill it.

From all reports, the recent Ohio State league meeting at Fremont was a complete washout. And the question of whether there'll be an Ohio State baseball league in 1942 remains unanswered.

Only clubs officially represented were Fremont and Fostoria. Even Grover Hartley of Findlay, who had been trying to start a movement to oust Joe Donnelly as league president, failed to show up.

Joe informed the Fremont and Fostoria moguls that there was $308 in the league treasury, and that was the meeting.

* * *

Sport writers over the circuit were to have had a free dinner on the league, but Fremont's Dick Behr was the only one present. Now, who said sport writers would go to the ends of the earth for a free feed?

Indiana Gals Play Football

Hoosier Sisters Match Brawn and Fingernails.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. —(AP)— The Indiana university campus, used to publicity pranks of Coach Bo McMillin, will be treated tomorrow to another outlandish football phenomenon — a girly girly show of gridiron.

I. U. chapters of Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities will play their first game of touch football

Touch football is an affair of nine players to a side supposed not to be as rough as the real thing.

To make sure it's not so rough, promoters have decreed in a custom tailored, special-for-Thursday-only rule book that no player may go into action before she has cut or taped her fingernails—manicure and polish notwithstanding.

Hair pulling will be penalized, primping will be allowed only between plays, and the referee will carry the only mirror.

Starting lineups will be characterized by brains and beauty and absolute lack of football experience.

* * *

Sideline sitters at front-yard scrimmage sessions of the pulchritudinous pigskinners reported today:

In the middle of a practice game, the sisters go into huddle and ask one another, "what's the score?" and "who's ahead?"

Some of them still think a back is what you show off with an evening gown and a line is something a man hands you.

Qualified observers predicted that when Greek meets Greek on gridiron the proceedings would be Greek to even the best qualifid observers.

Tygers Ready for Bulldogs

Brandt Only Regular Missing From Lineup.

MANSFIELD high's Tygers make their second bid for recognition for state championship honors tomorrow night at Stadium field when they tangle with the heavy-scoring Canton McKinley Bulldogs before a home-coming crowd expected to reach 8,000.

McKinley has a big team that will boast a considerable weight advantage over the Tygers, and combines power, speed, and a sensational passing game in a triple-threat attack that keeps its opponents guessing all the way.

Plans for stopping this attack were outlined last night at the meeting of Downtown Coaches by Tyger Tutor Paul Snyder. Naturally those plans can't be revealed in the public prints, but the Tygers have been working on them all week, and hope their defense will prove as successful as it did against mighty Massillon two weeks ago.

To beat Canton, the Tygers must stop the pile-driving line smashes of Fullback Tom Harris, the elusive and speedy running of Jack Crider, and an aerial attack which boasts three accurate tossers and twice that many receivers.

Coach Snyder will have almost his entire regular lineup in shape and ready to go against the Bulldogs Joe Romano will be back at left end, and Bill Pecht at left tackle. Chuck Condon, who showed his line smashing ability against Cleveland Central last week, will replace the injured Adam Brandt at fullback once more

The Tygers will have more than state title recognition at stake when they tackle the Bulldogs. They'll be out for revenge for a 38 to 6 defeat suffered last year at Canton when the great Athie Garrison ran wild for three touchdowns, including one from kickoff.

* * *

Mansfield has had its share of revenge against other opponents this season, notably Sandusky, Springfield and Massillon, and is determined to continue its string against McKinley. However with Brandt out of the lineup, most observers agree that the two teams will meet on an equal basis.

Cross Hits 645 To Lead League

Chet Cross had every game over the 200 mark to pace the Westinghouse "A" league at Colony alleys last night with a 645 total He rolled strings of 219-223-203.

H. Little rolled high game of 234, then dropped to 123 and 119.

JOINS AIR CORPS

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(INS)—J. K. "Buddy" Lewis, star baseball player for the Washington Senators, has passed his physical examination for appointment as an air corps cadet, the third baseman and outfielder disclosed in Charlotte today.

Touchdown Tactics

By STUBB ALLISON
California Football Coach.

THE SITUATION: It's your ball in mid-field against your school's traditional rival, third down with eighteen yards to go, due to a bad pass from center. The second quarter is just starting, and the game up to the present time looks very even from an offensive and defensive standpoint.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

1. Fake punt?
2. Long pass?
3. Reverse?
4. End run?
5. Kick?

(Answer in tomorrow's paper)

YESTERDAY'S PROBLEM
By FRANK W. LEAHY
Notre Dame Football Coach.

SITUATION: Fourth down, one yard to go, the ball is on your 26 yard line with three minutes left to play You are leading 6 to 0. You have a fair plunger, a fast halfback around end, a very good kicker, and an excellent passer Your opponents have had little success with passes and their running game has been only fair.

ANSWER

I would punt for these reasons: a defensive team would have strengthened its middle in anticipation of a plunge, and if I had only a fair plunger, he might be stopped or thrown for a loss. An end run is dangerous because it usually makes or loses big yardage. If we punt out of bounds, inasmuch as we have a good kicker, the ball should go at least to our opponents' 45. As their running attack has been poor, we could drop an extra man into the backfield for pass protection to nullify their strength in this department.

Shelby Plays Marion Next

Meet Unbeaten Squad Before Playing Tygers.

SHELBY—Shelby Whippets will face two undefeated football elevens on successive week-ends as the grid season comes to a close here this month.

The undefeated but tied Marion Harding eleven will come here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday to play the Whippets in their final North Central Ohio league contest and last home game.

Harding has only two ties, both 0 to 0, to mar its record. Marion was tied by Mt. Vernon, a team that beat the Whippets, 13 to 6, last week, and Lima Central. Its league record is two wins and one tie.

Shelby has won two league games and lost the same number. It will be out for its fifth win out of eight games.

On the following week-end, the Whippets take on the Mansfield powerhouse at Mansfield. Mansfield has not been defeated so far this season and was able to hold Massillon to a tie.

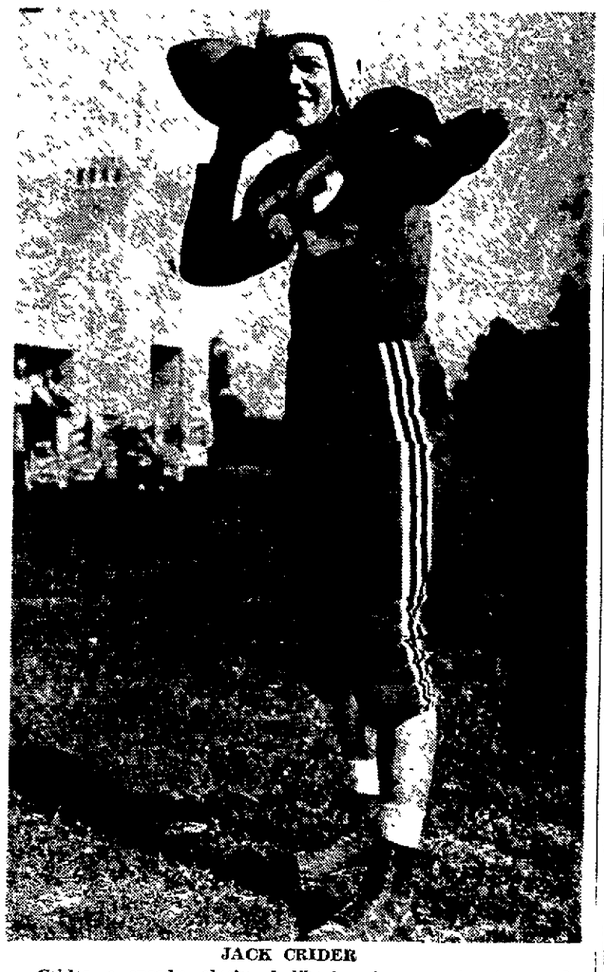
ARMSTRONG DECIDES TO ABANDON BOXING RING

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— Because he was the only one hurt in an automobile accident, hammering Henry Armstrong of the triple-crown has given up all thoughts of returning to the ring in which he won nearly 300 fights.

"I sort of took it as a warning," said the only man who has ever held three world boxing titles at once. "A month ago in Oklahoma our auto turned over. I broke my finger and nobody else was hurt. My finger's all right, but that incident decided me For the first time I say definitely I'm not going to fight any more."

He's Canton Bulldog Threat



JACK CRIDER

Crider, a speedy, elusive halfback, who can also toss and catch that oval, is one of the chief offensive threats of the Canton McKinley Bulldogs, who meet Mansfield's Tygers in the home-coming game at Stadium field tomorrow night.

Ohio State and Wisconsin Play to Massillon Stands

COLUMBUS—(U P)—Extra portions of that intangible incentive-to-win will be served up in Ohio stadium Saturday.

For Paul Brown of Ohio State, the occasion will be the first display of his big league coaching prowess to his best friends and severest critics — the football-minded folks of Massillon.

For Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, it will be a golden opportunity to quiet the yapping of the wolves who are disgruntled by his only ordinary gridiron results in six years at the Badger school.

With native sons as the rival head coaches and the Massillon high band as a feature attraction, the game looks like a "natural" for a Columbus reunion by the residents of the Stark county steel city.

While each coach will have his supporters, no doubt a majority of the folks will keep sharper eyes on the Buckeyes of Brown whose "miracle" Massillon high school teams revived the town's great football traditions.

Brown's desire to win for the Massillon visitors will be no less than Stuhldreher's to win for his job. Always an optimist, the four horsemen quarterback predicted before season started that this year's material was the best he's had at Wisconsin.

The Badgers' record in the first five games—two victories and three defeats—failed to bear him out and he is pressed to wind up the season in a blaze of triumph.

Ohio may have the reputation but Wisconsin is really a coaching "graveyard." The average tenure for a coach there is five years and nine football tutors have come and gone since 1913.

The Buckeyes went through one of their longest drills of the season yesterday to prepare for the Badgers. Jack Graf, varsity fullback, worked the entire session without a leather brace on his knee which kept him out of the last two games.

Dick Palmer, sophomore from Cleveland Shaw, was promoted to No. 2 fullback behind Graf while Dick Burgett, Columbus sophomore worked at No. 3 fullback.

Lin Houston, injured sophomore guard, remained in University hospital for treatment of his swollen knee He definitely will not play Saturday.

The Badgers arrive in in town tomorrow morning. A tarpaulin has been spread over the stadium gridiron to protect it against intermittent rains which fell yesterday and this morning.

Meet Fostoria Squad For Season's Closer

Team of Mudders Will Not Break Habit as Rain Soaks Gridiron

MADISON high school gridders, an outfit well acquainted with muddy fields and slippery footballs, will meet the Fostoria St. Wendelin Mohawks in the Ram backyard tonight rain or not, Coach Al Fendrick said this morning.

Some teams may dread the wet turf, but not the Rams. So far this season they've galloped right along through seven games about half of which have been either played in the rain or on soggy fields.

Furthermore the rain hasn't seemed to bother them much and it hasn't been until the end of the season that they have developed a passing attack which could be bothered by slippery footballs.

Punting in the rain, a bugaboo to most teams, hasn't bothered them at all. During the Loudonville tilt, Harold Hammer stood deep in his own end zone and punted the Madison team out of danger with a ball so wet it could probably have supported a school of goldfish.

Two lineup changes were announced by Fendrick this morning for the game Delbert Poston will start at left end in place of Jack Fletcher and Max Robert will take Reynold Bell's spot in the backfield.

The Fostoria team has won two, lost two and tied two games this season and last Sunday battled Sandusky St. Mary's to a 7-6 win.

Madison has won five and lost two.

In deciding to play tonight, Fendrick said that forecasts showed that the weather would clear by tonight so that spectators will be out of the rain and that the weather will take a turn for the colder tomorrow and the next day. The team, he said, would rather play in the rain than in the cold.

* * *

Records of the St. Wendelin team show that it will be a Hammer night tonight. Fostoria has a 132-pound left tackle named Hammer and Madison's 126-pound left half is also named Hammer.

* * *

Main threats to the Ram peace of mind will be the two Fostoria halfbacks, Holman and Smith. Last Sunday they practically divided the backfield chores between them at Sandusky.

Holman does a lot of the Mohawk running while Smith handles their kicking.

His punting, incidentally, indirectly caused the Mohawk score. By punting out of bounds deep in Sandusky territory he was able to set up the break that led to the score.

Madison school officials announced earlier this week that tonight will be set aside for the school Boosters and Parents club.

Formed during the season for the benefit of parents interested in the game, the Parents club corresponds to the Boosters club and, according to Fendrick, has been drawing quite a few members to its meetings.

Probable starting lineups:

Madison	Pos.	St. Wendelin

Keller	RG	Loeffler
D. Stone	RT	Graham

Harmon to Propose Before Enlisting

CHICAGO —(NS)— Tom Harmon, Michigan's candidate for all-time college football honors, headed for California today to meet a girl, transact a little business, and make himself ready for service in Uncle Sam's army air force.

Just before he boarded a westbound United Airliner, Harmon made known that his immediate destination was Hollywood, where he planned to "pop the question" to Miss Elyse Knox, movie starlet. He admitted he didn't know what her answer would be, but commented:

"I hope to make her Mrs. Harmon before I get my flying commission." Harmon enlisted in the air corps yesterday.

CHILD TO BE NAMED FOR FIRST SCORING GRIDDER

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The first time Bedford high school gets near the goal line tomorrow, the quarterback will be faced with a mighty important decision. Who'll carry the ball?

Bedford's coach, Tom Welbaum, said he would name his new baby son after the first of his players to score against Maxfield.

Infant Welbaum, eight pounds and five ounces, was born Monday night.

Film Newcomer May Turn Ranch Into Hideaway

HOLLYWOOD —(NS)— Somebody ought to tell Greta Garbo, who likes to be alone, about George Montgomery, ex-cowboy whom 20th Century-Fox is making into a screen star.

Montgomery has a 1444-acre ranch in Montana, so isolated that "even the coyotes get lonesome."

The ex-cowboy said today he was going to turn the ranch into a retreat for stars who really want to "get away from it all." Only people who work in pictures will be accepted as guests.

The idea of turning the ranch into a hideaway for film folk was suggested by complaints that dude ranches in Arizona, Nevada and southern California were overcrowded.

COLUMBUS, O. —(U.P.)— Mrs. Mary C. James, director of student activities at Marietta college, believes that the selective service act will boost the enrollment of women in colleges and universities.

SKUNK WINS

LINCOLN, Neb.—(U.P.)—Whether a skunk can be shot in self-defense caused a round of discussion in the Nebraska unicameral chamber. The lawmakers were discussing a measure proposed to protect fur-bearing animals. In the end, Johnny Skunk was victorious by a 13-10 vote.

PAM— Not "Carey Graham!" By A. W. Brewerton

IF IT'S NOTHING MORE, IT'S A MOST REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE! YSEE, PAM, EVER SINCE YOU TOLD ME ABOUT THE NAME "CAREY" COMING TO HIM SO PERSISTENTLY, A THOUGHT, BACK IN MY MIND, TRIED TO TAKE FORM
11-6
THEN WHEN I SHOWED HIM HIS DOCTORED PICTURE, THE ONLY THING HE SEEMED ABLE TO THINK OF WAS THAT NAME "CAREY" AGAIN!
WELL, THAT STARTED A BELL RINGING AGAIN, SOMEWHERE IN MY MEMORY. I HAD A FEELING I WAS MISSING SOMETHING! THEN IT CAME TO ME! IT WAS AN F.B.I. CASE I HEARD OF SOME MONTHS AGO FROM ONE OF OUR DISTANT BRANCHES, WHERE THE SON OF A—
--- PORTLAND BANKER HAD BEEN KIDNAPED. THE YOUNG FELLOW'S NAME WAS CAREY GRAHAM!
OH, DAVID, THAT MUST BE ALLEN MASON!
NO! I'M AFRAID NOT! CAREY GRAHAM WAS FOUND!

RAIL SELLING STEMS BRISK MARKET RALLY

Brotherhood Rejection of Wage Boost Proposal Chills Sentiment.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selling in rails today stemmed the brisk rally which got under way in Wednesday's stock market.

Chilling sentiment for the carriers, brokers said, was the rejection by the brotherhoods of the wage boost award of the presidential fact-finding board announced Wednesday.

In the backward column were Chesapeake & Ohio, N. Y. Central, U. S. Steel, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Kennecott and American Telephone.

Resistance was displayed by American Tobacco "B", Reynolds Tobacco "B", American Can, Sperry, Western Union and Anaconda.

Shareholders derived some comfort from the summary of the Edison Electric Institute placing the country's electric power production for the week ended last Saturday at a new record peak.

The institute estimated the week's aggregate at 3,338,538,000 kilowatt hours, or 1.2 per cent above the preceding week and 15.8 per cent larger than in the comparable 190 period. The survey was a day late because of the election holiday.

Further confirmation of the industrial swing was seen in the Dun & Bradstreet compilation of bank clearings for the week concluded yesterday. The total topped the like week a year ago, which also had but five business days, by 24.1 per cent.

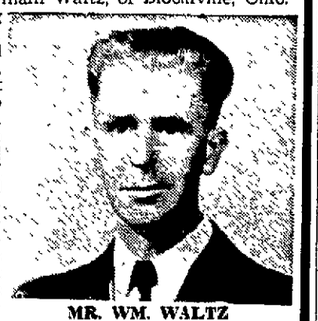
BLOOMVILLE MAN UNABLE TO EXPRESS ENOUGH APPRECIATION TO BEE BEE'S

Declares the Great Root and Herb Diuretic, Bee Bee's Relieved Prostatis, Kidney Trouble, Inflammation of Bladder, Aches and Pains.

"After I had taken the first bottle of Bee Bee's I felt an improvement in my condition and my second bottle gave me wonderful relief," says Mr. Wililam Waltz, of Bloomville, Ohio.



MR. WM. WALTZ

"Although I was working every day and I wasn't what you would call sick, I had sharp pains in my hips, legs, arms, shoulders and feet At times it was hard for me to bend over or raise my arms. The trouble was worse as soon as I got up in the morning and I thought I had an attack of rheumatism. My neck would become stiff and I couldn't figure out the cause. It is possible that my kidneys were disordered, causing most of pains through my system. I didn't rest well at night and at times my energy wasn't up to the usual mark. My nerves were unsteady and I felt generally out of sorts.

"Bee Bee's relived the pains in my hips, legs, arms and in other parts of my body. Now I can raise my arms or bend over without any distress and the stiffness has left my neck. My kidneys are better and my nerves are steady. I feel better and sleep better and work better. Bee Bee's wins my highest praise. My wife took Listerine and received satisfactory benefits from My wife took Liverine and received satisfactory benefits from it."

ENVOY BRINGING PEACE FORMULA

But Washington's Skeptical of Success of Japanese Mission To U. S.

and Admiral Kitchisaburo Nomura, the Japanese ambassador.

Secretary Hull and other state department officials profess, however, to have no authoritative information of Kurusu's mission, or what proposals he may be bringing from the Japanese government.

Official reaction was summed up: Wait and see.

Since the entire field of Japanese-American relations has been explored in nearly a hundred discussions, here and in Tokyo, there was little optimism in diplomatic quarters that Kurusu's mission would break the deadlock resulting from sharply divergent policies pursued by the United States and Japan in the Far East.

Kurusu, designated as special adviser to Ambassador Nomura, is fresh from consultations with Japanese government leaders. A former ambassador to Berlin, where he signed the Axis pact for Japan, he is the second high-ranking Japanese envoy to come to Washington on a special mission linked with settlement of Japanese-American problems.

The flight of Kurusu to the United States was appraised by the Japanese press as a final diplomatic effort toward improving Pacific relations by removing a deadlock in Washington conversations.

"This is a last opportunity (for the United States) to make amends for aggression and restore the occasion for an amicable settlement," declared the Japan Times and Advertiser, which is controlled by the foreign office.

Kurusu planned to take off from Takao, Formosa, this morning for Hongkong, to board a clipper held two days so that he could make trans-Pacific connections immediately.

Domei said Kurusu was expected to confer with high Commissioner Francis B. Sayre and President Mauel Quezon of the Philippines at Manila, where he was Japanese consul-general from 1919 to 1922.
